Ohio Turnpike Chieftain Hurls New Challenge

COLUMBUS (AP)—Chairman James W. Shocknessy of the Ohio Turnpike Commission today challenged Paul M. Herbert of Columbus to "answer the $35,000 question" at the commission's meeting in Berea next Tuesday.

Herbert, Republican nominee for lieutenant-governor, recently said in a statement that a member of the commission received $35,000 in connection with turnpike business.

Herbert previously had declined Shocknessy's invitation to document his charges at a commission meeting and the turnpike chairman declined Herbert's request to join him in a television debate on the subject.

Shocknessy's letter, in reply to one from Herbert, said: "It is noted that in no place in the letter do you advert to your despicable and now notorious accusations that a member of the Ohio Turnpike Commission received $35,000 from a firm which was paid $350,000 by the Ohio Turnpike Commission, and that political considerations dominated construction of the Ohio turnpike."

"UNTIL YOU answer the $35,000 question in two parts—who paid the $35,000 and who got the $35,000—not any of your bombast will receive attention from me, from the commission, or from the people of Ohio."

"The Ohio Turnpike Commission will be convened in meeting on Tuesday, Oct. 2 at 10 a. m., EST, in its headquarters in Berea on the Ohio turnpike, and it is expected that you will be present there at that time to offer proof of your statement."

Hurricane Slows To Storm Rating

ATLANTA (AP)—Hurricane Flossy, downgraded to storm status with half of its punch gone, swirled into the Atlantic today off the South Carolina coast. The season's sixth tropical storm left 13 dead and at least that many missing, plus property damage in the gulf estimated at several million dollars.

The Miami Weather Bureau said the storm would regain some force after reaching the ocean north of Charleston, S. C., but probably not enough to get back into the hurricane class.

Flossy formed suddenly in the Gulf Saturday, aimed its center for a time at populous New Orleans, then swerved eastward and slammed the Gulf coast.

Apparently fertilizer is a wonderful thing to increase yields—even when applied to papaw (or paw paw) bushes.

Walter Thompson, of the Flakes Ford Rd., who owns a fruit farm and summer home on "Turkey Ridge" south of South Salem, was passing out some huge papaws here Tuesday—some of the largest I have ever seen.

"I fertilized the tree" Walter smilingly said when comment was made about the unusual size of the fruit. I did not ask him what he used, but I was further interested when he said that the one tree bore about a bushel of choice papaws.

Walter also grew some exceptionally nice peaches on his farm on "Turkey Ridge" this year.

NCR Leases Downtown Building for Warehouse

The National Cash Register Co. announced Wednesday that it has leased the former North American building on S. Main St. as a warehouse for supplies, printed forms and domestic advertising materials which are manufactured in Dayton and distributed through NCR's plant here.

The four-story building, owned by the Midland Grocery Co., will give National Cash Register 42,000 square feet of storage space.

The brick structure, which at one time housed the Washington Candy Co., has been vacant since North American closed its aviation supply warehouse here a year ago. It is across the alley immediately south of Steen's Department Store.

Joe Peters, manager of National Cash Register's plant in Washington C. H., said the lease is for five years with an option for renewal.

THE LOCAL PLANT processes and manufacturers paper rolls for the company's cash registers and business machines and also distributes printed forms and supplies manufactured in Dayton.

The new warehouse will be under direct supervision of the Washington C. H. plant which employs approximately 150 persons.

New Boston To Get Phone Service Again

PORTSMOUTH (AP)—Telephone service in New Boston, a city of 5,000 entirely surrounded by Portsmouth, will resume "sometime today" for the first time since Aug. 16.

This was announced by a spokesman for the strikebound Ohio Consolidated Telephone Co. Service at the manually operated exchange was suspended after the New Boston exchange was raided and stoned by a group estimated to number between 200 and 300.

The company's move came shortly after New Boston's Mayor Vernal Riffe invoked a seldom-used law which provides state intervention in labor disputes.

The obscure law provides the State Industrial Commission shall intercede when called upon to do so by a mayor or a probate judge. In Columbus, J. Maynard Dickerson, vice chairman of the industrial commission, said:

Fresh Air Shortage Seen Dangerous to Los Angeles

LOS ANGELES (AP)—There's a serious shortage of fresh air in Los Angeles, experts told a legislative hearing Tuesday.

If breezes should stop blowing for several days, they said, and if the Los Angeles population continues to climb, a serious smog might some day cause thousands of deaths before anyone realized it. Panic might follow. A lot of people might go crazy.

Dr. Leslie A. Chambers, research director of the Los Angeles County Air Pollution Control District, explained that a layer of warm air often spreads over the cooler air in the Los Angeles basin. When the warm air reaches down below the height of the surrounding mountains it's like a lid.

Intermittent breezes break up the lid-like temperature inversion from time to time, letting in fresh air.

Dr. Chambers said the five million living in the basin already use more fresh air than it can hold when the lid is on. If the inversion should hold for several days, he said, there would be no fresh air to breathe. It has never happened, he said, and there is no evidence it is likely to.

But what might happen when the population of the basin goes up to 12 million as predicted?

Dr. Chambers said he is worried about "full dependence upon the fickle mid-summer and fall breezes."

Dr. Dermot Taylor, UCLA pharmacology professor who was in London when fog smothered it in 1952 and 3,000 died, reported it was all over before people realized anything was wrong.

"There simply was an increase in the normal death rates," he said. "Coronary cases first. Then respiratory cases. The hospitals were the first to notice it."

Dr. H. R. Brickman, UCLA psychiatrist, said the irritations and anxieties caused by air pollution are bad for people on the borderline of insanity. He said:

"Smog of dangerous proportions would push them over the brink."

Adlai Says Republicans Use Soil Bank To Buy Support

Ike Says Democrats Wooing U. S. Farmer with Quackery

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP)—Adlai E. Stevenson today called on President Eisenhower to say whether he has "heard about loose administration of the soil bank to pour money into the Farm Belt" in advance of the November election.

Slapping back at Eisenhower on farm policy views which the chief executive expressed in a nationwide television address Tuesday night, the Democratic presidential nominee said that the soil bank program "is debased for partisan political purposes during this election year, the blame must fall on the Republican administration."

In his speech at Peoria, Ill., Eisenhower defended his farm policies and accused the Democrats of "mockery and deceit" in setting forth their program.

In an address prepared for delivery here today, Stevenson dealt with the soil bank created by Congress this year in an effort to reduce crop surpluses. It provides for government payments to farmers. Stevenson asked: "Is it possible that the President has not heard about the loose administration of the soil bank to pour money into the Farm Belt before election? Or does the President deny that this is playing politics, and with huge sums of the taxpayers' money?"

IN EXCERPTS from his address which were made public in advance, Stevenson did not elaborate on the two questions he put to the President. He did say:

"It is no secret that the management of local agricultural stabilization and conservation committees has been taken away from local farmer committees, and in some cases handed over to Republican politicians."

Eisenhower in his Peoria speech said that his administration is depending mainly on the soil bank plan to increase farm prices. The soil bank plan calls for federal subsidies to farmers who agree to take out of production land they otherwise would plant to crops already in surplus.

The soil bank plan was enacted this year. Eisenhower said that 500,000 farmers are getting $260 million in benefits from it in 1956.

In Miami Tuesday night, Stevenson linked "a member of the President's personal family" to a Stevenson charge that the Eisenhower administration appeased Argentina's Peron regime.

Roger Tubby, an aide to the Democratic nominee, said the family member to whom Stevenson referred but did not name is Dr. Milton Eisenhower, the President's youngest brother.

"Peron's abuse of the principles and policies of freedom and democracy is now written plain in history's record," Stevenson said.

"Yet the record stands that under this administration the United States chose to appease him. A member of the President's personal family assumed special, if informal, responsibility for our relations with Argentina."

Stevenson also told his Miami audience that under the Eisenhower administration "we kept an ambassador in Buenos Aires because Peron liked him."

Tubby told newsmen Stevenson was referring to former Ambassador Albert Nufer.

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower accused the Democrats Tuesday night of "politicizing at the farmers' expense" in his harshest attack on the opposition so far in the campaign.

He told the nation's farmers, on the other hand, that the program of his administration will give them "a full share in our country's good times."

Without making any specific new proposals to increase farm income, he said "good progress" is being made toward that goal.

He made it clear that his administration is depending primarily on the soil bank plan to lift agricultural prices. Enacted this year, the soil bank provides federal subsidies to farmers who agree to take out of production land they would otherwise plant to crops already in surplus.

He said half a million farmers this year are getting $260 million in soil bank benefits. He envisioned a fourfold increase next year, in the 12 million acres retired from production this year.

ACCOMPANIED by Mrs. Eisenhower, the President flew back early today after he delivered at Peoria, Ill., his second major campaign speech to be carried nationally by radio and television.

He followed closely the Republican platform and public pronouncements of Secretary of Agriculture Benson in outlining steps he said now have brought farmers "brighter peacetime prospects than they have had for years" and which he said hold out the hope of "full income parity."

He said the Democratic program holds out to farmers only "mockery and deceit." And he used such phrases as "political expediency," "opposition politicking," and "political quackery."

"Our opponents," he said at one point, "today are criticizing the mess that they themselves left behind."

He accused the Democrats of "politicizing at the farmers' expense" by continuing high wartime supports. He said this piled up surpluses and that last year these surpluses cost the farmers $2 billion in income by holding prices down.

He said farm prices went down for 10 years, except for "one tragic year when the Korean battlefields provided the kind of market no one wants," and in 1956, when "there is no war."

When the Democrats were in power in late 1952, Eisenhower said, farm prices suddenly dropped faster than in any similar period in recent history, and he continued:

"IT TAKES rare talent to force farm prices down in the middle of a war. In November I think farmers will see that that accomplishment gets its just reward."

"You remember where agriculture was four years ago when the opposition political party still had to perform as well as talk."

"Here is where it was: farm prices dropping, production unbalanced, world markets shrinking, surpluses soaring, farmers discouraged, and farm boys—many of them—in foxholes in Korea."

Then, in a shaft aimed directly at Stevenson, he added:

"And yet, some politicians say that, to counteract the poisons spread by the old farm program, farmers ought to swallow the same programs all over again."

Israel, Jordan Clash in Bloody Border Incident

JERUSALEM (AP)—A punitive raid into Jordan by artillery-backed Israeli infantrymen, the third of its kind this month, set off a seven-hour battle that ended at dawn today with heavy casualties on each side.

Israeli spokesmen said 50 Jordanians were killed in the raid on army and police positions near Eusan, six miles southwest of Jerusalem. Israel acknowledged 5 of her raiders were killed and 19 wounded.

Jordanian army officers in Amman, the Arab kingdom's capital, declare about 100 of the Israelis were killed and the rest forced to retreat in disorder after blowing up a police post and some houses. By their account, 31 Jordanian soldiers, policemen and national guardsmen lost their lives as the fighting raged through attack and counterattack.

Jordan had cleared roads near the Israeli border in the last two days in anticipation of an attack.

IT CAME AFTER the slaying of four civilians and the wounding of 18 by gunfire from Jordan Sunday near Jerusalem and the killing of two Israelis in the last three days. Israel said 36 of her citizens had been killed and 51 wounded along the Jordan border in the last six months.

Both the Israeli army and Foreign Ministry made it plain the raids were made in reprisal. The Foreign Ministry said:

"Israel forces struck tonight at a Jordan base of military aggression against Israel in an effort to bring home to Jordan authorities the Community Chest."

The network announced it would not telecast the Eisenhower talk because, the network said, the Federal Communications Commission had informed CBS that it would have to offer equal time to all other presidential candidates.

The American Broadcasting Co. granted the request by the United Community Funds and Councils of America to broadcast the speech. The Eisenhower appeal will go on ABC-TV next Sunday at 7:35 p. m. EST and on ABC radio at a time not yet set.

The National Broadcasting Co. said its decision is pending. The Mutual Broadcasting System said it would present the speech on its radio network at 8 p. m. EST Sunday.

WCH Attorney Says He May Seek Injunction

Marchant Discloses Plans after Board Hearing in Columbus

COLUMBUS (AP)—A Washington C. H. attorney today said he is considering asking for an injunction to stop the Fayette County treasurer from collecting current personal property taxes on grain stored under the government price stabilization program.

Atty. Rollo M. Marchant, a grain grower himself, said his present plan is to seek the injunction this week or next on behalf of himself and other grain growers.

Marchant said he was an observer for the Fayette County Farm Bureau at a hearing before a state board of tax appeals attorney-examiner in a case involving wheat stored with the government.

Assessments had been mailed out and payments are due now, Marchant said.

He wants the court to stop collection of the assessments until the case before the tax board is settled.

In the tax board case, Atty. Ray Maddox of Washington C. H., who owns a farm operated by a relative, is protesting personal property assessments on stored grain.

MADDOX said he did not consider he owned the grain after he turned it over to a warehouse and got a warehouse receipt which he later turned into cash.

The hearing was before William J. Ford, veteran attorney examiner. Maddox, when questioned by his attorney, John King of Columbus, said during the years under question, he converted his grain into cash through the Commodity Credit Corp. program. He said he reported income from the grain on his income tax returns.

Clarence Cooper of Washington C. H., manager of the Fayette County Farm Bureau Assn., and also in charge of the bureau's 310,000-bushel elevator, told how farmers brought grain to the elevator under the government program.

He said the elevator was recognized by the CCC. Cooper testified that after grain was put in the elevator under the government program, the government paid storage and handling charges that also included insurance. However, if a farmer stored wheat there on his own and did not take part in the government program, he had to pay these charges.

The state tax department has ruled the Ohio taxes against the grain were made legally. The department's chief attorney, Karl Irwin (Please turn to page two)

School Fund Shortage Investigation Continues

The hunt for approximately $9,100, missing from the Washington C. H. High School activities fund—and anyone who might know something about it—has been progressing since Aug. 24 when Sheriff Orland Hays entered the case, but the progress has been slow and painstaking.

An audit of the books last January revealed that the discrepancies started in August of 1954. After an investigation by school authorities got nowhere, the case turned over to Prosecutor John Bath, who in turn, called in Sheriff Hays.

The sheriff, who has been working on the case quietly and saying very little, disclosed Wednesday that he had interviewed "at least 20 other persons." He mentioned no names, but did say some of those who took the tests did it voluntarily.

His records show that he has made trips to Jackson, Wilmington, Dayton and Columbus to check on information and question persons in those places. Mrs. Hays, a deputy, accompanied him on some of the trips.

SHERIFF HAYS has been shuttling back and forth to Columbus and London for weeks to gather evidence, some admittedly virtually worthless and some with a direct bearing on the hunt.

He said the end was not in sight, but there was no indication that he felt he would not eventually reach it.

He was to go back to Columbus again Wednesday night to question one or two persons believed

They sought increased government help in coping with a sharp drop in potato prices, caused by a sudden surplus. In some places, grower prices have dropped below $1 a hundred pounds.

CHICAGO (AP)—Two unions which are on strike against Swift & Co. in a dispute over wages and a union shop, signed a three year contract Tuesday with Armour & Co. covering some 35,000 workers in 37 plants.

The new pact between Armour, one of the nation's major meat packers, and the United Packinghouse Workers and the Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen (AFL-CIO), provides for wage increases ranging from 10 to 22½ cents an hour and other benefits.

The agreement provides a modified union shop, an escalator clause providing wage hikes if the cost of living rises, progressive elimination of women workers' differentials, "major" improvements in sickness and health insurance provisions, broadening of overtime provisions, and improvements in the vacation system.

Meanwhile, officials of the two unions planned to renew negotiations with Swift in an attempt to settle the seven-day strike of some 25,000 workers in 38 plants in 37 cities. The unions have asked an undisclosed but "substantial" pay boost. Swift has offered a 22 cents hourly raise spread over a three-year period.

JERUSALEM (AP)—A punitive raid into Jordan by artillery-backed Israeli infantrymen, the third of its kind this month, set off a seven-hour battle that ended at dawn today with heavy casualties on each side.

Israeli spokesmen said 50 Jordanians were killed in the raid on army and police positions near Eusan, six miles southwest of Jerusalem. Israeli acknowledged 5 of her raiders were killed and 19 wounded.

Jordanian army officers in Amman, the Arab kingdom's capital, declare about 100 of the Israelis were killed and the rest forced to retreat in disorder after blowing up a police post and some houses. By their account, 31 Jordanian soldiers, policemen and national guardsmen lost their lives as the fighting raged through attack and counterattack.

Jordan had cleared roads near the Israeli border in the last two days in anticipation of an attack.

IT CAME AFTER the slaying of four civilians and the wounding of 18 by gunfire from Jordan Sunday near Jerusalem and the killing of two Israelis in the last three days. Israel said 36 of her citizens had been killed and 51 wounded along the Jordan border in the last six months.

Both the Israeli army and Foreign Ministry made it plain the raids were made in reprisal. The Foreign Ministry said:

"Israel forces struck tonight at a Jordan base of military aggression against Israel in an effort to bring home to Jordan authorities (Please turn to page two)

Dulles Predicting Egyptians Won't Get Away with Grab

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles predicted today that Egypt will not be able to "get away with" single handed operation of the Suez Canal. He appealed to disputing nations for "patience and resourcefulness" in dealing with the canal crisis.

Dulles was asked at a news conference whether he thought there would be Arab efforts to nationalize the great Middle East oil fields "if Egypt gets away with" its seizure of the canal.

He replied that he did not accept the possibility that Egypt was going to get away with it.

Dulles then said that through such things as the loss of tourist revenues and trade, due to declining faith in this way of doing business, Egypt would come to recognize that it would have to work out a different solution for the canal.

He said he did not see any prospect of Egypt's making a success out of the path it now travels.

THE APPEAL for "patience and tolerance" came in a formal statement with which Dulles opened his news conference—the first he

School Fund Shortage Investigation Continues

The hunt for approximately $9,100, missing from the Washington C. H. High School activities fund—and anyone who might know something about it—has been progressing since Aug. 24 when Sheriff Orland Hays entered the case, but the progress has been slow and painstaking.

An audit of the books last January revealed that the discrepancies started in August of 1954. After an investigation by school authorities got nowhere, the case turned over to Prosecutor John Bath, who in turn, called in Sheriff Hays.

The sheriff, who has been working on the case quietly and saying very little, disclosed Wednesday that lie detector tests have been taken by five individuals at the London Prison Farm and that he has interviewed "at least 20 other persons." He mentioned no names, but did say some of those who took the tests did it voluntarily.

His records show that he has made trips to Jackson, Wilmington, Dayton and Columbus to check on information and question persons in those places. Mrs. Hays, a deputy, accompanied him on some of the trips.

Boy Locked Up In Home Closet

DAYTON (AP)—Three-year-old Ray Clark, his face streaked with tears and perspiration, was released by sheriff's deputies Tuesday from a clothes closet in which they said he had been locked eight hours.

St. Paris authorities picked up his teen-aged step-sister who told deputies she locked the boy in the closet after her father left for work and then she went to St. Paris.

Moser Heads Health Drive

Board Maps Plans For Levy Campaign

Approved by the Fayette County Health Board in plans for a vigorous drive for renewal of the two-tenths-of-a-mill levy at the November election, Ed F. Moser will act as overall chairman in the campaign now starting.

Moser will confer with the members of the board next Tuesday at the regular meeting date to check on activities which will acquaint the general public with what the Health Department has been doing and why the present small levy is regarded as essential to the departmental program.

A spokesman for the Health Department explained Wednesday that proper functioning and maintenance of the department rests upon the outcome of the vote on the levy.

Chairmen and members of committees to handle various features of the campaign will be announced within the next few days.

Confidence was expressed by members of the board and personnel of the department that since this is not a new tax, when the public is fully acquainted with the extensive health protection activities which have been carried on, there will be a satisfactory result in the Nov. 6 election.

Firefighters Halt Spread in Forest

SAN BERNARDINO, Calif. (AP)—Fire-fighting crews today attacked "hot spots" in the 10,500-acre burned area of the now halted but still dangerous San Bernardino Mountains forest blaze.

The six-day-old fire northeast of here was held in check Tuesday night and the U. S. Forest service reported it now all surrounded.

Evacuated residents were being permitted to return to their homes but were being warned to keep their automobiles packed and ready for a hasty retreat if fire should break out again.

Farm Wives Lose In Bid for Aid

WASHINGTON (AP)—A group of farm wives made no headway Tuesday in efforts to get higher government payments for potatoes. One woman said the group got only "sweet talk" at the Agriculture Department.

After a day of protest demonstrations and conferences with department officials, leaders of the 150 farm women said they received no satisfaction.

They sought increased government help in coping with a sharp drop in potato prices, caused by a sudden surplus. In some places, grower prices have dropped below $1 a hundred pounds.

WCH Attorney Says He May Seek Injunction

Marchant Discloses Plans after Board Hearing in Columbus

COLUMBUS (AP)—A Washington C. H. attorney today said he is considering asking for an injunction to stop the Fayette County treasurer from collecting current personal property taxes on grain stored under the government price stabilization program.

Atty. Rollo M. Marchant, a grain grower himself, said his present plan is to seek the injunction this week or next on behalf of himself and other grain growers.

Marchant said he was an observer for the Fayette County Farm Bureau at a hearing before a state board of tax appeals attorney-examiner in a case involving wheat stored with the government.

Assessments had been mailed out and payments are due now, Marchant said.

He wants the court to stop collection of the assessments until the case before the tax board is settled.

In the tax board case, Atty. Ray Maddox of Washington C. H., who owns a farm operated by a relative, is protesting personal property assessments on stored grain.

MADDOX SAID he did not consider he owned the grain after he turned it over to a warehouse and got a warehouse receipt which he later turned into cash.

The hearing was before William J. Ford, veteran attorney examiner. Maddox, when questioned by his attorney, John King of Columbus, said during the years under question, he converted his grain into cash through the Commodity Credit Corp. program. He said he reported income from the grain on his income tax returns.

Clarence Cooper of Washington C. H., manager of the Fayette County Farm Bureau Assn., and also in charge of the bureau's 310,000-bushel elevator, told how farmers brought grain to the elevator under the government program.

He said the elevator was recognized by the CCC. Cooper testified that after grain was put in the elevator under the government program, the government paid storage and handling charges that also included insurance. However, if a farmer stored wheat there on his own and did not take part in the government program, he had to pay these charges.

The state tax department has ruled the Ohio taxes against the grain were made legally. The department's chief attorney, Karl Ir- (Please turn to page two)

Networks Eye Appeal by Ike For Charities

NEW YORK (AP)—The Columbia Broadcasting System has declined to carry a three-minute TV appeal by President Eisenhower in behalf of the Community Chest.

The network announced it would not telecast the Eisenhower talk because, the network said, the Federal Communications Commission had informed CBS that it would have to offer equal time to all other presidential candidates.

The American Broadcasting Co. granted the request by the United Community Funds and Councils of America to broadcast the speech. The Eisenhower appeal will go on ABC-TV next Sunday at 7:55 p.m. EST and on ABC radio at a time not yet set.

The Mutual Broadcasting System said it would present the speech on its radio network at 8 p. m. EST Sunday.

Commenting on ABC's decision to carry the speech, Vice President John Daly said:

"We feel that this is an area of public service on which we cannot turn our back."

The United Community Funds and Councils of America is the parent fund-raising group for 2,000 local organizations. They include the Community Chest, Boy and Girl Scouts and others.

Red Cross Field Consultant To Explain 'Gray Ladies' Plan

Fayette County's Gray Ladies will hear more about this organization of volunteer women, the work it is doing and its objectives, from Mrs. Leland Baxter, volunteer field consultant for the Red Cross, at a meeting Oct. 9 at the home of Mrs. Leonard Korn, 323 Gregg St.

A Gray Ladies group is being formed here by the Red Cross to lend a hand in the broad program of entertainment and rehabilitation of patients in the Veterans Hospital at Chillicothe. Mrs. Korn is secretary of the Red Cross chapter here, and Mrs. Mike Harrison, 649 Wilbar Dr., is chairman of the Gray Ladies movement.

Already 12 women have volunteered for the group here, Mrs. Harrison said. They are Mrs. Marvin Rossmann, Miss Mayne Krusecamp, Mrs. Roland Sterling, Mrs. Byers Shaw, Mrs. H. H. Denton, Mrs. Charles Buxton, Mrs. Howard Osborne, Mrs. Joseph Peters, Mrs. Richard Curt, Mrs. Ellis Bishop, Mrs. Ed Veltette and Mrs. Norman Knisley.

Both Mrs. Harrison and Mrs. Korn expressed the hope that at least 24 would volunteer for the group here. They explained that since, under present plans, six of the group would go to the hospital each week "the more there are in the group the more infrequently they would go to the hospital." If there are 24 in the group here, they pointed out, a group of six would go only once a month; if there are 30, they would go only every fifth week and if there are only 18, the group would go every third week.

MRS. HARRISON made it plain that any woman interested in helping at the hospital will be welcome at the Oct. 9 meeting to learn more about the Gray Ladies program, no matter whether she has previously volunteered. The meeting, Mrs. Korn said, is to start at 1 o'clock and following Mrs. Baxter's talk, it is to be thrown open to general questioning.

"There is a great variety of work to be done at the hospital," Mrs. Korn said, mentioning such activities as helping in the gift shop, with the craft work, reading to the patients, teaching and playing games, leading group singing and rolling bandages. "There will be something for everyone to do," she said and emphasized that no special skills are necessary.

Mrs. Harrison said Gray Ladies from 13 counties in this area are now going to the hospital regularly and that during the past year more than 5,000 volunteers spent more than 43,000 hours there helping the veterans. She added, however, that "Fayette County has never participated in this volunteer work that is so greatly needed, and the Red Cross chapter here hopes to make it possible for Fayette County to do their share."

Those who want more detailed information, Mrs. Harrison said, may call her or Mrs. Korn.

HERBERT SAID in his letter to Shocknessy, a high-ranking member of the State Democratic Executive Committee:

1. That Shocknessy "was instrumental in securing lawyers for the turnpike commission."

2. That "one firm" was paid $372,000 for its services (Shocknessy identified the firm as Squires, Saunders & Dempsey of Cleveland, attorneys).

3. That "shortly after or about the time Chairman Shocknessy contacted the firm relative to employment by the commission, it (the firm) represented the Reconstruction Finance Corp. in the Lustron liquidation proceedings."

4. That "through the good offices of this law firm lawyer Shocknessy was joined in a minor capacity. Lawyer Shocknessy was paid $31,285 in the Lustron matter."

Shocknessy replied that in the Lustron matter he was employed by RFC, not Squires, Saunders & Dempsey. And he said Ohio Atty. Gen. C. William O'Neill (the Republican nominee for governor) not the commission, hired the law firm as bond counsel for the Ohio Turnpike.

Herbert's attempt to relate Shocknessy's employment by the RFC in February 1950 to the attorney general's employment of the law firm in May 1951 "is an obvious imbecility," Shocknessy said.

Two Questioned In Lodge Theft

Lie Detector Tests
Arranged for Pair

Two men have been questioned about the weekend disappearance of $441 from a cash register drawer that was kept in a cabinet in the office of the Eagles Lodge here, Police Capt. Harley Haggard revealed Wednesday.

He said the two are to be taken to the London Prison Farm for lie detector tests by the Ohio Bureau of Investigation, possibly later in the day. Specialists from the bureau were here to take fingerprints and photographs Monday morning, but Capt. Haggard did not comment on what, if anything, these had disclosed.

The disappearance of the money was discovered by Gene Tillet, the custodian, when he went to the lodge early Monday. He notified the secretary, Charles Osborne, who called police at 5:15 a. m.

Police said they found the glass in the door to the office, just off the main lobby, broken and a door taken off of the cabinet in which the money drawer was kept. They said there was no evidence that the outer door or the door to the lobby had been forced or that any of the three safes in the office had been disturbed.

Israel, Jordan

their own interest in putting an end to attacks against Israel citizens and Israel territory."

Jordan said the Israeli attack was made in brigade strength, meaning perhaps 2,000 or more infantrymen took part in the raid 2 1/2 miles inside the armistice demarcation line. Jordanians had estimated Israeli strength in each of the two previous attacks this month at 1,000 men.

Jordan's Cabinet met in emergency session. Later King Hussein, the 29-year-old monarch, received diplomats of the other Arab nations in audience at his palace in Amman.

These nations have professed unity in frontier difficulties with Israel and also are united by a pledge of full backing for Egypt in a new problem, President Gamal Abdel Nasser's nationalization of the Suez Canal.

In New York, U. N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld separately called in representatives of Jordan, Israel and the big four powers (the United States, Britain, France and Russia) for urgent talks on the military activity.

He dispatched a warning to both Israel and Jordan last week against further outbreaks. He urged both governments to live up to the cease-fire agreement in their 1949 armistice.

Maj. Gen. E. L. M. Burns, the U. N. truce supervisor who has held several talks lately with Israeli government officials in Jerusalem, is expected to visit Amman shortly for talks with Jordanian government leaders.

Supt. W. A. Smith and Principal John Trace of the high school have gone to London with him, he said, to go over the information compiled by the Ohio Bureau of Criminal Investigation and Identification at its headquarters at the London Prison Farm. They also studied the results of the lie detector tests.

SCHOOL OFFICIALS are being kept informed on the progress of the investigation because, the sheriff said, it will be up to the school board to proceed with the prosecution when he completes his probe and turns the evidence over to it. The activities fund, which is handled through the principal's office, is made up of money from athletics, various club activities, the band, school annual and the like.

Johnny Appleseed Is Praised By Lausche as 'Real Person'

COLUMBUS (AP)—Ohio Gov. Frank J. Lausche today described "Johnny Appleseed" as a "real person with big ideas, high principles and a religious turn of mind."

The governor spoke on a program honoring the 182nd anniversary of the birth of John Chapman, better known as Johnny Appleseed. He said:

"We are told that he was an early missionary of the Church of the New Jerusalem, better known as the Swedenborgian, a small Christian denomination which bases its teachings on the Bible and the writings of Emanuel Swedenborg. Some of the earliest writings we have about Johnny Appleseed tell of this religious motivation."

Chapman was born in the apple growing section of Leominster, Mass., Sept. 26, 1774. He joined the western migration as a young man and decided he could best help the pioneers by getting apple trees started. He gave away seeds, planted numerous nurseries and sold some trees for a few cents each, records show.

Recollections of Judge Lansing Wetmore tell of an apple nursery planted by John Chapman in 1797 on Brokenstraw Creek near Warren, Pa.

A pioneer of Jefferson County, Ohio, recalled seeing Chapman in 1806 going down the Ohio River toward Marietta with two canoes lashed together. They carried apple seeds from cider presses in Western Pennsylvania.

Lausche said researchers learned that Chapman's price for a 3 to 4-year-old apple tree seedling was a "tip-penny bit" — about 6 1/2 cents. Records show that Johnny Appleseed lived in Richland County, Ohio, between 1810 and 1830.

A Johnny Appleseed monument was dedicated Nov. 8, 1900, in Mansfield's Sherman - Heineman Park. Other monuments are in Ashland and Lima and at Ft. Wayne.

Chapman moved to Indiana about 1830 and died as the result of exposure March 18, 1845.

"IT'S SO EASY TO PLACE A WANT AD."

TO THE VOTERS OF FAYETTE COUNTY:

I am a candidate for state senator in this fifth-sixth state senatorial district of Ohio. This includes Fayette, Clinton, Greene, Highland and Ross Counties. I want you to vote for me at the general election on November 6, 1956. I am a Democrat; Baptist; member of the American, Ohio State and Fayette County Bar Associations. I have formerly served as an assistant attorney general of Ohio; field director with the American National Red Cross, in Europe, during World War II; and regional director for the Federal Civil Defense Administration, in Ohio, Michigan and Kentucky, during 1951-52.

I need money to help finance my campaign. I want to get my story to the people. The financial burden is too much for a candidate to pay all by himself. Therefore, will you voters, who are interested, forward a contribution or gift, to assist in the financing of my campaign efforts to win this election. It will be appreciated. Any amount will help. I am for good schools, good roads, and other progressive legislation that will make Ohio a better place in which to live.

Check Case Goes To Grand Jury

Bainbridge Man
Accused of Fraud

William Earl Davey, 38, of Bainbridge, was held to the grand jury under $500 bond by Judge Max G. Dice in Municipal Court Wednesday morning on a charge of giving a check with intent to defraud. The check was drawn Sept. 25 to Surplus Clothing, and the complaint was filed by Alva Merritt. Davey, who pleaded guilty, was arrested at 2:25 p. m. Tuesday on Court St.

Unable to furnish bond, Davey was placed in jail. Police notified the court they also had a "hold order" from Ross County. Thomas Heber Holt, 36, Columbus, picked up by State Patrolman D. M. Holloway Sept. 20 on Route 62, south, and charged with driving while drunk, was fined $200 and costs, sentenced to three days in jail and suspended from driving for a year. The court, however, granted him permission to drive his car with his business as a road contractor.

A CHARGE growing out of a neighborhood row, was dismissed by Judge Dice. Leah B. Shockey, 32, of 611 Gregg St., was charged with assault on Dorothy Duncan, 17, Tuesday afternoon after police had been called to settle their quarrel.

Robert Forrest Mick, 19, of the Old Chillicothe Rd., was fined $5 and costs for having a license issued for a 1948 Nash car on a 1949 Buick. He was picked up by Patrolman Holloway on Route 35.

Preston Grose, who was picked up on Route 62 by Patrolman Holloway Sept. 19 and charged with failure to display a license on his car, forfeited $25 bond by failure to appear in court.

Whites Seek Continuance Of Boycott

HENDERSON, Ky. (AP)—Henderson's anti-integration leaders Tuesday night urged a sometimes-praying, sometimes-cheering crowd to continue fighting attempts at racial integration in schools.

Under the yellow light of naked light bulbs, the Rev. Don Weaver of the nearby Geneva Independent Church prayed for "divine help in coping with the local segregation problem."

An occasional "amen" was heard from the more than 1,000 persons who stood under the old elm trees in Municipal Park.

The meeting was called by officials of the White Citizens Council of Kentucky to gain strength in the boycott of the Weaverton school here.

Tuesday morning, the Henderson Ministerial Assn. asked parents to keep their children in the county school, but only 206 of the 870 white students showed up for classes with five Negroes.

The boycott began Tuesday. The Rev. Mr. Weaver said the Supreme Court didn't have the best interest of the nation in mind when it ruled against segregation, adding that "God didn't want it that way."

Red Cross Field Consultant To Explain 'Gray Ladies' Plan

Fayette County's Gray Ladies will hear more about this organization of volunteer women, the work it is doing and its objectives, from Mrs. Leland Baxter, volunteer field consultant for the Red Cross, at a meeting Oct. 9 at the home of Mrs. Leonard Korn, 323 Gregg St.

A Gray Ladies group is being formed here by the Red Cross to lend a hand in the broad program of entertainment and rehabilitation of patients in the Veterans Hospital at Chillicothe. Mrs. Korn is secretary of the Red Cross chapter here, and Mrs. Mike Harrison, 649 Wilbur Dr., is chairman of the Gray Ladies movement.

Already 12 women have volunteered for the group here, Mrs. Harrison said. They are Mrs. Marvin Rossmann, Miss Mayme Krukamp, Mrs. Byers Shaw, Mrs. H. H. Denton, Mrs. Charles Buxton, Mrs. Howard Osborne, Mrs. Joseph Peters, Mrs. Richard Curl, Mrs. Ellis Bishop, Mrs. Ed Vollette and Mrs. Norman Knisley.

Both Mrs. Harrison and Mrs. Korn expressed the hope that at least 24 would volunteer for the group here. They explained that since, under present plans, six of the group would go to the hospital each week "the more there are in the group the more infrequently they would go to the hospital." If there are 24 in the group here, they pointed out, a group of six would go only once a month; if there are 30, they would go only every fifth week and if there are only 18, the group would go every third week.

MRS. HARRISON made it plain that any woman interested in helping at the hospital will be welcome at the Oct. 9 meeting to learn more about the Gray Ladies program, no matter whether she has previously volunteered. The meeting, Mrs. Korn said, is to start at 1 o'clock and following Mrs. Baxter's talk, it is to be thrown open to general questioning.

"There is a great variety of work to be done at the hospital," Mrs. Korn said, mentioning such activities as helping in the gift shop, with the craft work, reading to the patients, teaching and playing games, leading group called the charges "irresponsible nonsense."

Shocksness said of Herbert's challenge to a television debate: "The public isn't interested in a TV show of Herbert and me. The facts speak for themselves and don't have to be debated."

Shocksness called most of Herbert's charges a rebash of "the so-called Rhodes report." That referred to a report on turnpike commission activities prepared in 1954 when State Auditor James A. Rhodes was Republican nominee for governor.

Shocksness contested only one of Herbert's accusations. It involved employment of attorneys.

HERBERT SAID in his letter to Shocksness, a high-ranking member of the State Democratic Executive Committee:

1. That Shocksness "was instrumental in securing lawyers for the turnpike commission."

2. That "one firm" was paid $372,000 for its services (Shocksness identified the firm as Squires, Saunders & Dempsey of Cleveland, attorneys).

3. That "shortly after or about the time Chairman Shocksness contacted the firm relative to employment by the commission, it (the firm) represented the Reconstruction Finance Corp. in the Lustron liquidation proceedings."

4. That "through the good offices of this law firm lawyer Shocksness was joined in a minor capacity. Lawyer Shocksness was paid $31,285 in the Lustron matter."

Shocksness replied that in the Lustron matter he was employed by RFC, not Squires, Saunders & Dempsey. And he said Ohio Atty. Gen. C. William O'Neill (the Republican nominee for governor) not the commission, hired the law firm as bond counsel for the Ohio Turnpike.

Herbert's attempt to relate Shocksness's employment by the RFC in February 1950 to the attorney general's employment of the law firm in May 1951 "is an obvious imbecility," Shocksness said.

Strength Test Under Way in U.N.

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—Britain and France squared off for a preliminary test of strength with Egypt today as the U. N. Security Council tackled the Suez Canal dispute for the first time.

The two West European powers said that at the meeting of the 11-nation council they would fight vigorously against Egypt's move to charge Britain and France with actions threatening world peace.

The British-French stand was expected to trigger a sharp procedural debate over just what should be on the council's agenda and how it should approach the bitter dispute over Egyptian President Nasser's nationalization of strategic East-West waterway.

Two Questioned In Lodge Theft

Lie Detector Tests Arranged for Pair

Two men have been questioned about the weekend disappearance of $441 from a cash register drawer that was kept in a cabinet in the office of the Eagles Lodge here, Police Capt. Harley Haggard revealed Wednesday.

He said the two are to be taken to the London Prison Farm for lie detector tests by the Ohio Bureau of Investigation, possibly later in the day. Specialists from the bureau were here to take fingerprints and photographs Monday morning, but Capt. Haggard did not comment on what, if anything, these had disclosed.

The disappearance of the money was discovered by Gene Tillett, the custodian, when he went to the lodge early Monday. He notified the secretary, Charles Osborne, who called police at 5:15 a. m.

Police said they found the glass in the door to the office, just off the main lobby, broken and a door taken off of the cabinet in which the money drawer was kept. They said there was no evidence that the outer door or the door to the lobby had been forced or that any of the three safes in the office had been disturbed.

their own interest in putting an end to attacks against Israeli citizens and Israel territory."

Jordan said the Israeli attack was made in brigade strength, meaning perhaps 2,000 or more infantrymen took part in the raid 2 1/2 miles inside the armistice demarcation line. Jordanians had estimated Israeli strength in each of the two previous attacks this month at 1,000 men.

Jordan's Cabinet met in emergency session. Later King Hussein, the 29-year-old monarch, received diplomats of the other Arab nations in audience at his palace in Amman.

These nations have professed unity in frontier difficulties with Israel and also are united by a pledge of full backing for Egypt in a new program, President Gamal Abdel Nasser's nationalization of the Suez Canal.

In New York, U. N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld separately called in representatives of Jordan, Israel and the big four powers (the United States, Britain, France and Russia) for urgent talks on the military activity.

He dispatched a warning to both Israel and Jordan last week against further outbreaks. He urged both governments to live up to the cease-fire agreement in their 1949 armistice.

Maj. Gen. E. L. M. Burns, the U. N. truce supervisor who has had several talks lately with Israeli government officials in Jerusalem, is expected to visit Amman shortly for talks with Jordanian government leaders.

School Fund Probe

to have some knowledge of the missing money.

Supt. W. A. Smith and Principal John Trace of the high school have gone to London with him, he said, to go over the information compiled by the Ohio Bureau of Criminal Investigation and Identification at its headquarters at the London Prison Farm. They also studied the results of the lie detector tests.

SCHOOL OFFICIALS are being kept informed on the progress of the investigation because, the sheriff said, it will be up to the school board to proceed with the prosecution when he completes his probe and turns the evidence over to it.

The activities fund, which is handled through the principal's office, is made up of money from athletics, various club activities, the band, school annual and the like.

Johnny Appleseed Is Praised By Lausche as 'Real Person'

COLUMBUS (AP)—Ohio Gov. Frank J. Lausche today described "Johnny Appleseed" as a "real person with big ideas, high principles and a religious turn of mind."

The governor spoke on a program honoring the 182nd anniversary of the birth of John Chapman, better known as Johnny Appleseed. He said:

"We are told that he was an early missionary of the Church of the New Jerusalem, better known as the Swedenborgian, a small Christian denomination which bases its teachings on the Bible and the writings of Emanuel Swedenborg. Some of the earliest writings we have about Johnny Appleseed tell of this religious motivation."

Chapman was born in the apple growing section of Leominster, Mass., Sept. 26, 1774. He joined the western migration as a young man and decided he could best help the pioneers by getting apple trees started. He gave away seeds, planted numerous nurseries and sold some trees for a few cents each, records show.

Recollections of Judge Lansing Wetmore tell of an apple nursery planted by John Chapman in 1797 on Brokenstraw Creek near Warren, Pa.

A pioneer of Jefferson County, Ohio, recalled seeing Chapman in 1806 going down the Ohio River toward Marietta with two canoes lashed together. They carried appleseeds from cider presses in Western Pennsylvania.

Lausche said researchers learned that Chapman's price for a 3 to 4-year-old apple tree seedling was a "fip-penny bit" — about 6 1/2 cents. Records show that Johnny Appleseed lived in Richland County, Ohio, between 1810 and 1830.

A Johnny Appleseed monument was dedicated Nov. 8, 1900, in Mansfield's Sherman A. Heinemann Park. Other monuments are in Ashland and Lima and at Ft. Wayne.

Chapman moved to Indiana about 1830 and died as the result of exposure March 18, 1845.

Winegardner, Washington C. H. attorney, will also be joined by Polk in a speaking engagement at another dinner given by the Greenfield Democratic Club at 7 p. m. Wednesday in Cowgill's Restaurant, Greenfield.

Grain Tax Dispute

win, and William Herron of the attorney general's office, represented the state at the hearing.

The Fayette County Farm Bureau is not in the case directly, and won't be in the injunction suit if it is filed by Marchant.

Marchant said it is customary for all farmers using the government program to turn their warehouse receipts into cash. The CCC program was set in an effort to maintain price supports of grain by storing in government-approved elevators.

Madrox said he never tried to get his wheat back after he had placed it in the elevator and he never had told anyone at the elevator or anyone else what to do with the wheat after he left it.

Under cross-examination, Madrox said the government never tried to get any money back from him. The tax board also is hearing testimony on two similar cases filed by Flora A. Goodrich of Rt. 1, New Albany, and Kermit Grenner of Hilliards.

Ford will take the cases under advisement after completion of the testimony. There was no indication when the board of tax appeals would give a decision.

5 U. S. Captains Training at Suez

CAIRO (AP)—Five U. S. ship captains arrived today to train alongside mariners from other nations as pilots on the Suez Canal.

They said they agreed with the Egyptian government to take six weeks training and then decide if they want to stay on.

They are the first Americans to come here for pilot training since foreign pilots employed by the old Suez Canal Co. left their jobs Sept. 14. Egypt advertised throughout the world for replacements. Fifteen Russian pilots and a mixture from other countries, including Communist Poland and East Germany, are already in training at Port Said.

TO THE VOTERS OF FAYETTE COUNTY:

I am a candidate for state senator in this fifth-sixth state senatorial district of Ohio. This includes Fayette, Clinton, Greene, Highland and Ross Counties. I want you to vote for me at the general election on November 6, 1956. I am a Democrat; Baptist; member of the American, Ohio State and Fayette County Bar Associations. I have formerly served as an assistant attorney general of Ohio; field director with the American National Red Cross, in Europe, during World War II; and regional director for the Federal Civil Defense Administration, in Ohio, Michigan and Kentucky, during 1951-52.

I need money to help finance my campaign. I want to get my story to the people. The financial burden is too much for a candidate to pay all by himself. Therefore, will you voters, who are interested, forward a contribution or gift, to assist in the financing of my campaign efforts to win this election. It will be appreciated. Any amount will help. I am for good schools, good roads, and other progressive legislation that will make Ohio a better place in which to live.

Bainbridge Man Accused of Fraud

William Earl Davey, 38, of Bainbridge, was held to the grand jury under $500 bond by Judge Max G. Dice in Municipal Court Wednesday morning on a charge of giving a check with intent to defraud. Holloway Sept. 20 on Route 62, south, and charged with driving while drunk, was fined $200 and costs, sentenced to three days in jail and suspended from driving for a year. The court, however, granted him permission to drive his car with his business as a road contractor.

Whites Seek Continuance Of Boycott

HENDERSON, Ky. (AP)—Henderson's anti-integration leaders Tuesday night urged a sometimes-praying, sometimes-cheering crowd to continue fighting attempts at racial integration in schools.

Under the yellow light of naked light bulbs, the Rev. Don Weaver of the nearby Geneva Independent Church prayed for "divine help in coping with the local segregation problem."

An occasional "amen" was heard from the more than 1,000 persons who stood under the old elm trees in Municipal Park.

The meeting was called by officials of the White Citizens Council of Kentucky to gain strength in the boycott of the Weaverton school here.

Tuesday morning, the Henderson Ministerial Assn. asked parents to keep their children in the county school, but only 206 of the 870 white students showed up for classes with five Negroes.

The boycott began Tuesday. The Rev. Mr. Weaver said the Supreme Court didn't have the best interest of the nation in mind when it ruled against segregation, adding that "God didn't want it that way."

Rail Spokesman Tells Rotary of Carriers' Needs

Proposed Changes
In U. S. Transport
Policy Outlined

H. H. McEowen, representing the Eastern Railroads' President's Committee for Central Ohio, explained the proposed revision of transportation policy now before Congress, to Rotarians and guests at the club's luncheon meeting at the Country Club Tuesday.

Introduced by Joe Peters, the speaker explained that in 1954 President Eisenhower established a Cabinet committee on transportation policy and organization to make a comprehensive review of overall federal policies and problems, relating to this subject.

THIS COMMITTEE was assisted in its studies by a working group of qualified men in the field of transportation and resulted in a report being submitted to President Eisenhower which agreed that "within the short span of one generation this country has witnessed a transportation revolution"; that despite the growth and spread of competition throughout the whole field of transportation the government has intensified its regulation based on the historic assumption that transportation is monopolistic.

The report further declared, McEowen said, that the government's failure to adjust regulatory policy to changed conditions has created a serious hardship on the common carrier segment of the transportation industry and has added greatly to the costs of transportation — which costs must be paid by the shipper and ultimately the consuming public.

Failure to adjust regulatory policy, McEowen asserted, has resulted in inequities whereby shippers are not always able to get the benefit of advantages which other forms of transport possess for movements of traffic between different points and over various distances.

The speaker pointed out numerous examples whereby railroads and common carrier trucks are prevented from charging shippers lower rates because of federal regulations which have not been changed for over 30 years.

HE STATED that the report, which is to be studied by Congress, does not propose any change in existing regulatory authority over entrance of new enterprises in transportation nor any change in the government's organization for administration of transportation and responsibilities.

It does show, however, that in many respects government policy, unchanged over many years, prevents or limits, realization of the most economical use of common carrier facilities, which in many cases would promote lower shipping rates for the benefit of the public, he said.

McEowen asserted that the major purposes of the proposed revision of the federal government's transportation policy and laws are in brief (1) to permit greater reliance on competitive forces in transportation pricing and (2) to assure the maintenance of a modernized and financially strong system of common carrier transportation adequate for the needs of an expanding and dynamic economy and the national security.

Before the program, the club sang birthday greetings to Dr. Frank King, Dr. Fred D. Woolard and Herbert E. Wilson, all of whom made contributions to the Rotary youth fund.

'Ohio Highway Chief Asking Car Builders Stress Safety

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—Ohio's highway director today called upon the automobile industry to assume a greater share of the responsibility for driver and passenger safety.

That view was expressed at a meeting of the congressional subcommittee on traffic safety by Highway Director Samuel O. Linzell. The subcommittee is meeting throughout the nation. Linzell said:

"The power of sales promotion and advertising of the automobile industry might well be put to use in promoting safety on the highways."

Instead of featuring speed, acceleration and power of cars the advertising might shift its emphasis toward safety, he suggested. Advertising could help change the driver attitude from one of "hurry, hurry, hurry" to moderate speed and courtesy on the highway, he added.

"Advertising has changed this nation's eating habits, clothing habits and housing habits," he said. "I am sure the power of automobile advertising could change this nation's driving habits to safer driving habits."

Linzell believes the field of "honest-to-goodness" efforts toward designing safer automobiles "has just been scratched."

"I firmly believe that the automobile industry can do much more than it has toward designing safer cars and helping promote highway safety through advertising and education," he said.

He added that only a small percentage of the nation's streets have been rebuilt to accommodate modern automobile travel. The new federal interstate highway program should result in a "dramatic reduction" in the accident rate on 41,000 miles of our nation's highways, he asserted.

Speaker for the next Rotary meeting will be Judge Calvin Crawford of Dayton, a former U. S. district attorney and also a former member of a district Court of Appeals in Ohio.

in design during the 15 years the interstate system is rebuilt."

Tuesday, the subcommittee praised traffic safety measures already in effect in Ohio.

The group was to move to Indianapolis today for more hearings.

Testimony from 11 state and local law enforcement and safety representatives pointed up the need for pouring even more ammunition into the safety battle. Stressed repeatedly throughout the hearings were shortcomings such as:

Emphasis on power in automobiles instead of safety devices. The cost and far-reaching results of drunken driving.

Poor public attitude in accepting traffic regulations.

Lack of mandatory mechanical inspections for automobiles.

Need for driver training for adults and for more young people.

Among witnesses heard by the congressmen were U. C. Felty, state highway safety director, who predicted Ohio will reach a new low in fatalities by the end of this year, and Charles D. Vibberts, director of safety, Ohio State Automobile Assn., who said private and parochial schools are lagging in offering driver instruction.

Instead of featuring speed, acceleration and power of cars the advertising might shift its emphasis toward safety, he suggested. Advertising could help change the driver attitude from one of "hurry, hurry, hurry" to moderate speed and courtesy on the highway, he added.

"Advertising has changed this nation's eating habits, clothing habits and housing habits," he said. "I am sure the power of automobile advertising could change this nation's driving habits to safer driving habits."

Linzell believes the field of "honest-to-goodness" efforts toward designing safer automobiles "has just been scratched."

"I firmly believe that the automobile industry can do much more than it has toward designing safer cars and helping promote highway safety through advertising and education," he said.

He added that only a small percentage of the nation's streets have been rebuilt to accommodate modern automobile travel. The new federal interstate highway program should result in a "dramatic reduction" in the accident rate on 41,000 miles of our nation's highways, he asserted.

Tuesday, the subcommittee praised traffic safety measures already in effect in Ohio.

The group was to move to Indianapolis today for more hearings.

Testimony from 11 state and local law enforcement and safety representatives pointed up the need for pouring even more ammunition into the safety battle. Stressed repeatedly throughout the hearings were shortcomings such as:

Emphasis on power in automobiles instead of safety devices. The cost and far-reaching results of drunken driving. Poor public attitude in accepting traffic regulations.

Lack of mandatory mechanical inspections for automobiles.

Need for driver training for adults and for more young people.

Among witnesses heard by the congressmen were U. C. Felty, state highway safety director, who predicted Ohio will reach a new low in fatalities by the end of this year, and Charles D. Vibberts, director of safety, Ohio State Automobile Assn., who said private and parochial schools are lagging in offering driver instruction.

Do We Really Know What People Are Thinking?

Some politicians undoubtedly would make a wisecrack about the idea but, never-the-less, we are inclined to think that there would be actual benefit derived if a really scientific unbiased survey could be made to give a definite line on Ohio's political thinking today on public policy.

Undoubtedly many will remember the statement made by the late Samuel G. Blythe, who was among the most astute writers on politics and public affairs the country has produced, when he said, "It's always a great mistake to play the great American people for boobs".

One of the country's present well known writers recently told of a survey he had attempted on a comparatively small scale in another state. He was accompanied by a man who made a profession of polling and was in search of views of typical citizens on the questions that are uppermost on their minds as this year's political campaigns swing into high gear.

He found that this kind of polling on a conversational, face-to-face basis, is an astonishing experience. Commenting upon it he said: "What you get is a great, rich slice of life, like a marvelous slice of fruit cake with humanity itself as the crumb of the cake and political surprises of every sort as the nuts and raisins." He came to the conclusion that many of the professional politicians are wrong in what they think will sway the electorate.

As a result, he said, that he does not believe Republicans can rely entirely on "peace and prosperity" appeals, nor that the Democrats will get anywhere with mere criticism of the Eisenhower administration without offering things far more constructive than they have offered to date.

He said further that to his surprise, among the people he talked to, he found the big issue, was foreign policy and that these people displayed to him an "amazing showing of realistic concentration on this major national problem, and were well informed."

Another survey group, doing similar probing of public opinion in a state where it was expected there would be found concentration on agricultural policy, was surprised to find that Democratic promises of "bigger and better handouts than the Republicans will give you", aroused far less interest than the Suez Canal crisis, Russia's cold war strategy and other such matters.

In summing up, these unbiased opinion seekers found that representative voters with whom they talked were little concerned with promises of greater government expenditures for big dams to furnish government power, or further moves to "give something for nothing"; they also found most people quick to point out that they thought "there are too many politicians in our county, state and nation who are barking up the wrong tree when they appeal solely to the immediate self interest of voters."

Talking with such people as farmers, housewives, retired people, young housewives, clerks and office secretaries, skilled laborers and others, the survey people indicated that they found that more people than they expected were understanding also that "government money comes from somebody's taxes. They also know that individual rights and liberties are too precious to be traded for the Esau's pottage of temporary government favors."

A majority of the people contacted, it was said, seemed to be of the thoughtful type who sought "to separate the wheat of real issues from the chaff of political rhetoric."

This would seem to add up to the idea that those who seek public office would do well to remember Blythe's admonition: "It's always a mistake to play the great American people for boobs". Also they should remember that oft quoted remark of one of our nation's greatest statesmen "You can fool most of the people some of the time, and some of the people all the time, but not all of the people all the time."

No 'Vacation' in Alcatraz

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP) — An interesting thing happened to my wife last week.

"Uncle Sam has asked me and a friend of mine to come in tomorrow and explain our 1952 and 1953 income tax returns," she said.

"That so?" I asked. "Who's the friend?"

"You," said Frances sweetly. "You'll have to go by yourself." I told her. "I'm awfully busy tomorrow. Couldn't possibly go."

"Maybe you'd rather go to Alcatraz," said Frances. I suddenly decided I could make it after all.

Hundreds of thousands of Americans are being called in now to defend their back income tax returns. Word has been spread around that the experience is no worse than a bad cold, and that you aren't really a social success until it happens to you.

Warned by the direful tales of friends who had survived the tax man's inquisition, we spent a sleepless night going through desk and dresser drawers looking for old financial records. We found my grade school diploma (class of 1924), our marriage diploma (class of 1937), a picture of me in my first long pants, and a newspaper clipping predicting Alf Landon would beat F.D.R. hands down.

But all that was left of 1932 and 1933 was a handful of scattered checks. They showed we had spent a lot of money but didn't say what for, except a check for $15 on which Frances had, rather meanly I thought, scribbled: "For Mr. Bigshot's poker lesson."

Red-eyed from lack of sleep we showed up at the local office of the Internal Revenue Service.

We drew a handsome, soft-spoken young agent any mother would be glad to have as a son that is, if she didn't have to appear before him as a taxpayer. He put us at ease at once.

"Our job isn't to collect more money from you," he said genially. "It's to determine that you have paid the exact tax. We often refund money."

Instead of a winter vacation in Florida I began to dream of a trip to Europe.

That bright vision faded quickly as the agent began checking our returns, item for item, demanding specific proof for each deduction. The canceled checks I handed him feebly turned out to be only circumstantial evidence.

"Not detailed enough," he said crisply. "That's the biggest mistake taxpayers make—failing to keep adequate records."

"Can I plead temporary insanity?" I inquired humbly.

"No," said the agent, "but from now on you'd better keep a diary and write down your travel and other expenses as you go. And be specific."

The agent scribbled and frowned, then frowned and scribbled, finally said, "the amount is . . ." and named a figure that sounded like the national debt, give or take a few decimal points.

"You owe us?" I asked, at the rope's end of optimism.

"No, it's what you still owe, including interest at 6 per cent," he said, holding out a piece of paper. "Of course, you don't have to accept this as final. You have the right to appeal."

I had a brief mental image of myself standing under a spotlight with the nine members of the U. S. Supreme Court staring down at me.

"Gimme the paper," I said. "I'll sign."

Well, Frances and I aren't going to winter in Alcatraz. On the other hand, it doesn't look like we're going to vacation in Florida either, unless we go on the installment plan.

One thing more. Maybe you've heard a lot of guys hollering: "The government isn't going to make a bookkeeper out of me!"

Take it from me, they are all liars. I don't know how many bookkeepers there were in America last week, but this week there is one more. Me.

And Where Are the Statesmen?

By George Sokolsky

Democracy has become a very fashionable word not only in this country but in much of the world. It means, of course, rule by the people, but nowhere has a system been established by which the whole people govern. Always there are ruling groups, mastering groups, manipulating groups that either find ways of so agitating the people as to confuse them or who feed them false slogans, or create dishonest situations.

What it comes to is that in the 19th Century when there was a genuine striving toward democracy, men did not need to shriek that they believed in it as a way of life.

Today, when in some countries it is even dangerous to suggest that what is called democracy is a bluff a fraud, a means to control men, everybody shouts that democracy is the greatest of all systems of life.

But they do not mean democracy at all. They mean egalitarianism, the Utopian concept of the French Revolution, the assumption that all men are in fact equal even though one may be a genius and the other a moron.

The moron has one vote; the genius has one vote. The dope has one vote; the best informed man has one vote.

Whoever has a vote is the equal of anyone else who has a vote. To question that thesis is to oppose civil rights, human rights, the Bill of Rights.

It used to be that the Senate of the United States attracted to it elder statesmen, men who had already achieved distinction and who were expected to act as a brake upon the more radical House of Representatives. That is why senators were chosen for a six-year term while a member of the House of Representatives was chosen only for two years. The representatives were and are chosen on the basis of population in their districts; senators are chosen two from each state, two from small states such as Delaware and Rhode Island; only two from such enormous states as New York, California and Texas.

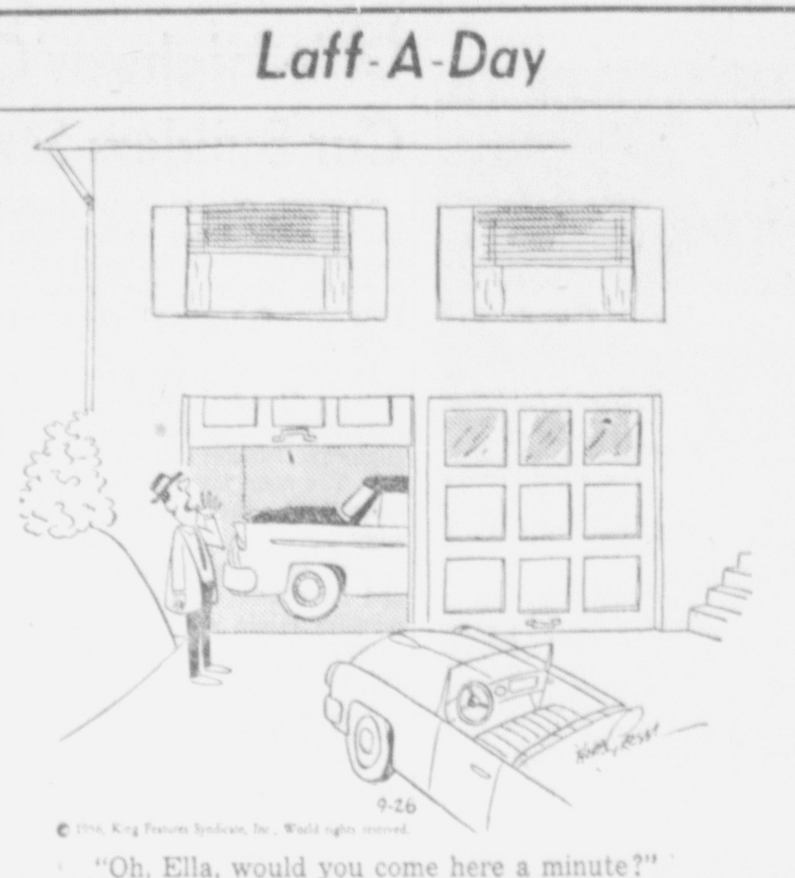

The concept of our republican government was a system of checks and balances. No branch of government, it was planned, was to be so strong as to become tyrannous; the government was not, in all its branches, to become too dependent upon what we today call public opinion which is so whimsical that what was said by one side in 1952 is now the doctrine of the other side.

It is like the man from Akron who weaned of his wife not because she was a nag or a shrew but only because she had been his wife for 24 years and he was weary of her presence. So he went to Paris, Brussels, Istanbul, Casablanca and everywhere he lived aggressively and expensively, as he had never done with his old wife, and everywhere he surrounded himself with young and beautiful women. So notorious was his conduct that he became a celebrity and all the gossip columnists wrote about him.

But his old wife, she just stayed in Akron and waited for him to come home because, as she told her bridge club who pitied her, "He will discover, sooner or later, that what he thinks he is looking for is the same in Akron as it is in Paris."

Change for the sake of changing does not produce progress. We got a new system of electing senators by the 17th Amendment to the Constitution and now a United States senator is only a congressman for six instead of two years.

Diet and Health Can Single Blow Result in Cancer?

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN

Despite a popular belief, it's doubtful that cancer can be caused by a single blow or other injury. At least, there is no established evidence that it can. In experiments with animals, scientists have been unable to produce cancer by a single mechanical injury.

Shortens Life

However, an injury or wound—we call it trauma in medical terminology—may aggravate existing cancer. Thus, it can actually help to shorten a cancer victim's life.

It has been claimed at times that cutting into a tumor, such as in making a biopsy, has caused dissemination of cancer cells and has aided the rapid spread of the disease.

Hard to Disprove

It is extremely difficult to disprove such claims and there is evidence supporting this theory. However, scientists have conducted carefully controlled experiments with animals and have come to the conclusion that biopsy does not disseminate cancer cells.

Now there's no doubt about external influences in cancer. This was noted way back in 1775 when it was discovered that coal dust was related to the development of scrotal cancer in chimney sweeps. And we know there is such a thing as "occupation cancer."

But while cancer may appear at times to be related directly to a single wound or injury, it is virtually impossible to prove the relationship on all five points required before it is considered an actual scientific possibility.

QUESTION AND ANSWER

F. D.: Does cortisone help cure cancer?

Answer: There is no evidence that cortisone is of help in curing cancer. It is primarily used in treating of asthma, allergic diseases and in certain types of arthritis.

Humane Society Gets Out of Donkey Business

TOLEDO (AP) — The Toledo Humane Society is now out of the donkey baseball business.

Ed Steusloff, society director, had discovered a team composed of 10 donkeys, a colt and a midget steer in a parked bus last week without a whisp of hay or a drop of water.

Team Manager Ralph Totten of Superior, Wis., found in a nearby motel, admitted he had not fed the squad for several days.

Steusloff contacted the team owner in Crescent, Okla., and help was dispatched to get the team under way again—after paying a weekend board bill here.

Left behind was Totten, fined $200 and sentenced to 90 days in jail for cruelty to animals.

In donkey baseball, humans play the game from donkeyback.

Can Single Blow Result in Cancer?

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN

Despite a popular belief, it's doubtful that cancer can be caused by a single blow or other injury. At least, there is no established evidence that it can. In experiments with animals, scientists have been unable to produce cancer by a single mechanical injury.

Shortens Life

However, an injury or wound—we call it trauma in medical terminology—may aggravate existing cancer. Thus, it can actually help to shorten a cancer victim's life.

It has been claimed at times that cutting into a tumor, such as in making a biopsy, has caused dissemination of cancer cells and has aided the rapid spread of the disease.

Hard to Disprove

It is extremely difficult to disprove such claims and there is evidence supporting this theory. However, scientists have conducted carefully controlled experiments with animals and have come to the conclusion that biopsies do not disseminate cancer cells.

Now there's no doubt about external influences in cancer. This was noted way back in 1775 when it was discovered that coal dust was related to the development of scrotal cancer in chimney sweeps. And we know there is such a thing as "occupation cancer."

But while cancer may appear at times to be related directly to a single wound or injury, it is virtually impossible to prove the relationship on all five points required before it is considered an actual scientific possibility.

QUESTION AND ANSWER

F. D.: Does cortisone help cure cancer?

Answer: There is no evidence that cortisone is of help in curing cancer. It is primarily used in treating of asthma, allergic diseases and in certain types of arthritis.

Humane Society Gets Out of Donkey Business

TOLEDO (AP)—The Toledo Humane Society is now out of the donkey baseball business.

Ed Steusloff, society director, had discovered a team composed of 10 donkeys, a colt and a midget steer in a parked bus last week without a whisper of hay or a drop of water.

Team Manager Ralph Totten of Superior, Wis., found in a nearby motel, admitted he had not fed the squad for several days.

Steusloff contacted the team owner in Crescent, Okla., and help was dispatched to get the team under way again—after paying a weekend board bill here.

Left behind was Totten, fined $200 and sentenced to 90 days in jail for cruelty to animals.

"Mary Haworth's Mail"

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: The problem is about my young son, by a former marriage. I married my present husband when Johnny (I'll call my son) was still a baby; consequently he doesn't know that Bill (my husband) isn't his father. Bill is very strict with the boy. No matter how well Johnny does a thing, it is never good enough to satisfy Bill. And if Johnny doesn't answer and come running the first time he is called, Bill gives him a stiff lecture and sends him to his room for the balance of the day. He is forever picking on him for the way he walks, talks, eats, etc. My husband keeps telling me there is something wrong with Johnny, because he has started to lie, steal and rebel against all rules. My son has had several tests by doctors, and they say he is a good healthy boy, but that he needs love from his father; a father to play with and understand him—as a child of nine—instead of being his jailer. Johnny's teacher says he has a defeatist attitude, and something should be done about it soon. I've discussed all this with Bill; also with the doctor, in Bill's presence; yet Bill does nothing to change.

He is jealously domineering in relation to Johnny, meanly resentful of the child's dependency upon your love and care—badgering him without letup, primarily because the lad exists, and secondarily because Bill isn't man enough to be a dad to him. As of now, Johnny is taking Bill's attitude at face value—namely, that he (Johnny) isn't worth hell-room, as the phrase goes. Feeling damned, he is putting himself in the worst light, compulsively, as if to end the argument, and have the struggle over with—the struggle to please, in which he hasn't succeeded; and never can, he thinks. You have reason to fear for your son's welfare. His mental health and social outlook are being ruined. For first-hand help with the problem—to undo the harm done Johnny, if possible—get in touch with the Family Service Association in the city through which you write. If Bill won't change, and you don't leave him, a good foster home should be found for Johnny—where he can relax and grow in a friendly atmosphere, sustained by a adult strength, and sense, and consistent kindness. Northeast Ohio U. S. Courts Said Overloaded with Work

WASHINGTON (AP)—Federal courts in northeast Ohio still are so overloaded with cases that the judges can't keep up, a federal report said today.

Termed "badly in arrears" were courts in the eastern division of the northern Ohio district, embracing Cleveland, Akron and Youngstown.

On the other hand, the survey said dockets in the western division, at Toledo, are up to date. "But the caseload there," it added, "is somewhat smaller than the caseload per judgeship in the eastern division."

The Ohio court situation was summed up in an annual report by Henry P. Chandler, director of the administrative office of the U. S. Courts.

The report did not list the southern district as having court congestion problems. This district has courts at Cincinnati, Columbus and Dayton.

Chandler's report—submitted to the chief justice—showed there were 1,275 civil cases pending in the eastern division of northern Ohio as of June 30, and that pending criminal cases as of that date had increased from 54 to 114 in 12 months.

Only 16 criminal cases were pending June 30 in the court of Toledo, the report said.

Taking up some of the reasons for the huge backlog in the eastern division, the report said: "The Smith Act (anti-Communist) trial during the past year with 11 defendants, lasting from October to February with a total of 42 trial days, required the constant attention of one judge for six months."

"It has now been disposed of, but several others 'big cases' remain on the dockets, including two government antitrust actions which may be set for trial this coming year."

To illustrate the effect of the big northeast Ohio backlog, the report said the typical civil case in the business year 1948 took 16 months from the time a charge was filed until a decision was reached.

In contrast, the report showed, the typical case in that area during the year ending June 30, 1956, took 33.7 months. The national median case took 15.4 months in the year just passed.

Looking ahead, the report noted that the judicial conference of the United States has recommended an additional judgeship for northern Ohio and that one conference committee has recommended two.

"The addition of two new courtrooms in Cleveland, just completed this summer, will provide a courtroom for each judge, which will ease the handicap of inadequate space in which to conduct trials," the report added.

U. S. Businessmen Outline 'Perfect Secretary' Traits

By DOROTHY ROE

Probably the most dreamed-about and sought-after woman in America today is that elusive character, the perfect secretary. She may be almost any age, say the wistful bosses. She doesn't have to look like Marilyn Monroe—in fact it's better for office efficiency if she doesn't. But she must have that rare gift of anticipating the boss' wishes and making both him and his office run like a precision watch.

Required specifications for this paragon are set forth in a new booklet "The Girl with the Halo," which lists results of a survey among American businessmen in which they were asked to list the qualities they considered most important to the perfect secretary.

No. 1 requirement of a majority of the bosses was initiative. This, they said, was the most important characteristic of their dream secretary. Surprisingly, it came ahead of typing skill, accuracy and neatness, which they probably took for granted. This highly prized quality was defined by one executive as "the ability to think and the initiative to act."

For instance, if the typewriter breaks down in the boss' absence, he comes back, doing nothing for several days, but should take the initiative and have it repaired at once.

Next most important requirement, say the bosses, is the ability to find and file information quickly and accurately. When he says "Bring me the file on Jones and Jones" he doesn't want to have to wait while a secretary searches through all the old office drawers, extracting spare nylons and bobby pins in the process.

Other characteristics listed in order of their importance are: a pleasant telephone manner, personal neatness, punctuality and good looks.

"Summer Meets Fall" is the seasonal theme of the competitive classes in floral arranging for the garden clubs of Fayette County annual fall flower show. The public will be welcome to visit the show at the Washington Country Club on Friday from 2 p. m. until 8:30 p. m.

The frost and cold weather of last week threw a slight scare into the garden clubbers, but club officers said today that the frost had done little damage, and that another flower show was in prospect.

Mrs. Ray Shoemaker, county contact chairman, has appointed the following garden clubs to handle various phases of the flower show. The Marilee Garden Club and the Twin Oaks Club will set up the Country Club for the show; while the Pic - Fay Garden Club will be in charge of the staging. Receiving the exhibits are members of the Washington Garden Club.

The Buckeye and Town & Country clubs will register the guests at the show, with the Fayette Garden Club members acting as hostesses. Serving punch to visitors at the flower show will be members of the Busy Bee and Posy Garden Clubs.

No exhibits are to be removed from the show until 9 o'clock Friday evening.

Round about Fayette County

By B. E. KELLEY
Residents of Lakeview Ave., in Millwood, are very happy. There is a reason.
Some five years ago residents petitioned Council for rebuilding the street, and when the cost was figured up, it amounted to so many dollars per front foot which was regarded as prohibitive.

Two years ago City Manager James F. Parkinson had the street torn up and regraded. He found plenty of basic material on the street, so he allowed it to become traffic-bound.

A few days ago the street was resurfaced with two inches or more of blacktop, from end to end, and now the street is in tip top condition, and the abutting property owners are not shouldering a long-time assessment at so many dollars a front foot.

HAS LONG RECORD

Raymond I. Scott, of Bloomingburg, who has an unusually large number of friends by reason of his business ability, geniality and accommodating nature, is completing his 10th year with Robert Jefferson in the latter's insurance office in Bloomingburg. Raymond for 30 years was carrier on Bloomingburg Rural Route No. 2 and later both routes when they were combined. He still is going strong.

ROST ON THE FODDER

I notice that recent killing post in Fayette County, "cooked" most of the green corn blades and speeded up ripening of the corn.

Most of the corn is now maturing rapidly, and farmers are beginning to plan when they will start their first cornpickings.

However most of the corn is still too moist to be stored without danger of spoiling.

Strangely enough the heavy frost did no particular damage in upper Ross and Highland counties.

STUMPS IN STREET

Records disclose that there were still many white oak stumps in Court St., in 1815, and it was not until many years later that all of the stumps were removed. When Washington C. H. was laid out in 1816 most of the area was covered with timber.

KENWORTHY AND CORN

ran across C. A. Kenworthy, of Greenfield, uptown, and we chatted a few minutes about the time he taught vocational agriculture in Jeffersonville High School back 1928 to 1930. He then went to Greenfield in the same capacity and taught in McClain High there for seven years.

I recall that during his teaching, C. A. was experimenting with hybrid corn, and succeeded in developing a strain which he decided offered a greater future than teaching vocational ag., so he turned his whole attention to raising hybrid seed corn on a large scale.

He is still growing 300 to 400 acres a year in the Greenfield new home on N. Washington St., in area, and he is now completing a Greenfield.

A REAL "SHOW PLACE"

As I was passing the home of Dr. and Mrs. S. E. Mossbarger, formerly the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Klever on Midland Ave., in Bloomingburg, I noticed the driveway leading from the street back up the eminence to the garage, was being blacktopped.

Dr. Mossbarger, who is one of the county's well known veterinarians and formerly lived at Clarksburg, purchased the property 11 years ago. When he bought the real estate, he also bought the furnishings left in the home after the death of Mr. and Mrs. Klever.

As I recall some of this furniture included solid mahogany, attractively upholstered, with marble-top tables.

However what has always appealed to me, and a lot of other folks, are the large colonial columns across the front of the homestead, giving the house a dignity and attractiveness seen only where colonial columns are used.

Even as a freckled-faced kid on a farm in Paint Township, when I was in Bloomingburg, I went out to the Frank McDowell grain elevator, I always admired the Ed Klever home and looked at it as long as I could see it.

MORE COFFEE TREES

I have discovered that the Kentucky Coffee Tree (Cassia buckthorn), which closely resembles the honeylocust tree and must be closely related, is more widespread in Fayette County than I at first realized.

For instance, I have seen many of the trees in the southern part of the county, and along Sugar Creek near the Sugar Creek Stone Quarry, but this week saw one standing on the Jesse Hagler farm, in a small tract of woodland at the intersection of the Lewis road and the road leading westward on which Elmer McCoy, wife and daughter, were murdered on Thanksgiving eve some 10 years or more ago.

I also saw one on the James T. Perrill land near the metal gas station building on the Devalon road.

Thurman Sholey, who resides on the Devalon road, a mile west of Bloomingburg, informs me that there are several of the trees standing on his farm along Paint Creek between the Devalon road and the B&O Railroad.

Some of the trees do not bear beans, and others bear beans yearly in pods three to four inches in length and a half inch across.

During pioneer days and again during the civil war, the coffee tree beans were collected, roasted and used for a coffee substitute.

TREES SHOW COLOR

Some of the soft maple trees over the county are beginning to show considerable color, with indications that the trees generally will soon don their gorgeous autumnal robes.

Some of the maples on East St., and on a few other streets in the city, are already showing some vivid colors.

An African safari group of nine "tourist explorers" requires a staff of 25 experts to accompany them.

Newest Synthetic Rubber Is Hailed

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A new synthetic rubber recently developed could free the United States from its dependence upon imported rubber, says Harvey S. Firestone Jr. He said in an interview that in a national emergency the new synthetic—called Coral—could be used in lieu of rubber from other countries.

Firestone said, however, that it will not replace natural rubber in the near future and that the United States will continue to use all the natural rubber it can import.

IT'S THE '57 "INNER FORD" IN ACTION

You're seeing why you'll ride sweet and low in the '57 FORD

On Wednesday, Oct. 3rd, you can see the new '57 Ford in all its glory. But (above) we're giving you a sneak preview of the "hidden beauty" that made the new Ford possible. You see, the new Ford was built from the inside out ... just as a beautiful piece of architecture starts with its foundation. The new "Inner Ford" is the secret of Ford's magic ... the inside story of why Ford is the longest, lowest, biggest, most spectacular Ford ever!

For the first time, you get a full-cradle frame that sweeps out as it dips down between the wheels. This helps give Ford a lower silhouette for 1957 ... as much as 4 inches lower. You get full head room and leg room—actually you get more inside room, easier entry than ever. Rear springs are mounted outside the frame so the rear seats are lower. The new driveshaft is tapered and hooks up with the differential lower down than ever before. This lets you ride sweet and low with full road clearance.

But this is just the beginning of the new Ford story! Wait till you try its exciting new sizzle! Wait till you see Ford's wonderful new bodies that ride sweet and low with Ford's remarkable new frames. They not only have quality in every built-to-last part and feature ... but they say "quality" in every clean-lined, sculptured line. Your Ford Dealer will have something really new to show you for '57.

Round about Fayette County

By B. E. KELLEY

Residents of Lakeview Ave., in Millwood, are very happy. There is a reason.

Some five years ago residents petitioned Council for rebuilding the street, and when the cost was figured up, it amounted to so many dollars per front foot which was regarded as prohibitive.

Two years ago City Manager James F. Parkinson had the street torn up and regraded. He found plenty of basic material on the street, so he allowed it to become traffic-bound.

A few days ago the street was resurfaced with two inches or more of blacktop, from end to end, and now the street is in tip top condition, and the abutting property owners are not shouldering a long-time assessment at so many dollars a front foot.

HAS LONG RECORD

Raymond I. Scott, of Bloomingburg, who has an unusually large number of friends by reason of his business ability, geniality and accommodating nature, is completing his 10th year with Robert Jefferson in the latter's insurance office in Bloomingburg. Raymond for 30 years was carrier on Bloomingburg Rural Route No. 2 and later both routes when they were combined. He still is going strong.

ROST ON THE FODDER

I notice that recent killing post in Fayette County, "cooked" most of the green corn blades and speeded up ripening of the corn.

Most of the corn is now maturing rapidly, and farmers are beginning to plan when they will start their first corn-picking.

However most of the corn is still too moist to be stored without danger of spoiling.

Strangely enough the heavy frost did no particular damage in upper Ross and Highland counties.

STUMPS IN STREET

Records disclose that there were still many white oak stumps in Court St., in 1815, and it was not until many years later that all of the stumps were removed.

When Washington C. H. was laid out in 1810 most of the area was covered with timber.

WHS Band Fast Becoming Top-Notch Musical Unit

With only about a month of practice, and two performances behind it, the Washington C. H. High School marching band is now shaping up as a well coordinated and smoothly functioning unit.

When Bob Neumann took over as director for the first time a week before school opened, he was faced with the problems of filling 31 vacancies, 27 of them created by graduation and four by transfers.

Fortunately, the replacements were ready, with experience in the Junior Band.

To the compliments he has been receiving after the band's performances at the first two football games, here two weeks ago and last week at Xenia, Neumann modestly replies that at least some of the credit should go to Bill Clift, the director for 15 years before he resigned last summer to take a similar position at Phillips Academy, a boys school at Andover, Mass. But the band's admirers insist that, although the nucleus of the Varsity Band was there, and a Junior Band from which to draw the replacements for the vacancies that occur every year, the music had had to be memorized (for the band plays without music) and new formations worked out with precision in execution.

WHEN THE BAND takes the field here Friday night for the half-time performance at the WHS-Columbus St. Charles football game, there will be 93 young musicians in the ranks, seven majorettes and a drum major—a total of 101.

Practice started the week before school opened and since then the band has gone to Gardner Park the last period of the school day for 40 minutes and once or twice at night each week to drill under the lights and fit the formations to the marks on the football field.

The band almost had to start from the beginning to integrate the new members. That included teaching the fundamentals of marching and execution of formations. Then the music had to be memorized.

After that came the formations—new ones for nearly every show—and that takes time and wearisome practice.

But, those 101 boys and girls are proud of their band and they never complain of the long hours and the thousands of steps. Their attitude is that they know they have a good band, but they want to make it still better; they want a band that the people will be as proud of as they are.

PLANS FOR Friday night's performance at the halftime of the football game have been disclosed only in part by Neumann. At least a third of the program is to be unfolded as a surprise maneuver or performance. All he would say was that it will fit into the general theme "Love and Marriage."

This theme was chosen as a tribute to the mothers and fathers of the Lion grid squad; for Friday night is to be "Parents Night."

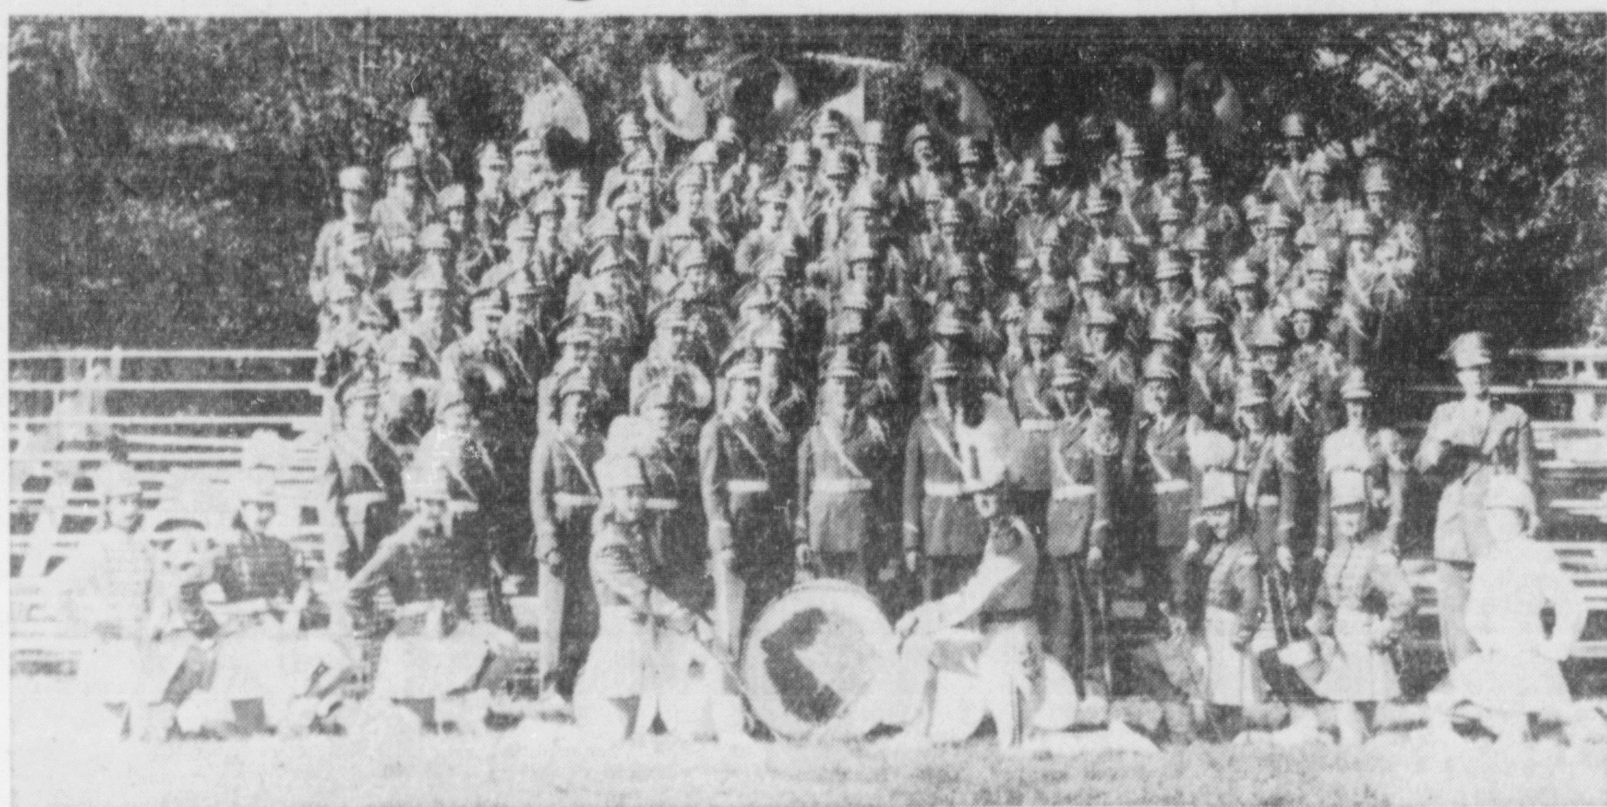

The band is to play "Sweet Old Fashioned Girl" and "There'll Be Some Changes Made" during the surprise part of the show, Neumann said, but he declined to elaborate.

The show is to open with the band playing "Happy Wanderer" as it forms the outline of a man with a pack on his back to symbolize Dad in the foot-loose and fancy-free days of bachelorhood.

It is then to move into the outlines of a doghouse, complete with dog, while playing "The Doggie in the Window," to show what can happen to Dad after he succumbs to "Love and Marriage."

From there on to the formation of the big block W for the playing of the WHS alma mater, the show remains clothed in secrecy.

ALTHOUGH the band's immediate concern has been the preparation of the shows for the football games, some busy days and ex-

Decision To Be Appealed

CLEVELAND — The state board which licenses auto dealers and salesmen is expected to appeal a common pleas judge's decision ruling unconstitutional a law prohibiting the sale of new automobiles on used car lots.

Judge Eugene R. McNeill of Van Wert decided in an opinion filed in Common Pleas Court here that the law on which the board's "rule 9" is based violates the 14th amendment to the Constitution and is an abuse of police powers.

The state licensing board had suspended Memphis Auto Sales, North Olmsted. Board inspectors reported they went to the used car lot and found new automobiles covered only by a manufacturer's certificate.

The company appealed and Judge McNeill heard the case on assignment to this county.

The judge said there was no benefit to the public from the law and rule 9, though they might benefit "new car dealers and the car manufacturers, and possibly only manufacturers."

He said the law "tends to create a monopoly," and "is discriminatory."

W. A. Brandenburg of Mansfield, chairman of the licensing board, said an appeal would be filed by Hugh E. Kirkwood Jr., assistant attorney general assigned to the board.

Ohio's Lake county produces more nursery products per square mile than does any other county in the United States.

presidential nominee Adlai Stevenson and his running mate, Sen. Estes Kefauver, will win in Ohio and that Gov. Frank J. Lausche "will run a great race" for U. S. senate. He said he himself would "fall somewhere in between but we'll be winners."

His opponent, Republican Atty. Gen. C. William O'Neill, opened his campaign in Cuyahoga County by calling for increased state aid to cities.

O'Neill said Ohio must accelerate its highway building program by stepping up planning, engineering and acquisition of right of way.

On municipal financing, he said the state must "reappraise and increase its aid to cities and do so by an equitable formula designed to put the money where it is needed."

Which Fuse For Building Boom Studied

Builders and Bankers At Odds on Easier Credit, Dearer Money

By SAM DAWSON
NEW YORK (AP) — Builders and bankers are sharply divided today on which would revive the home building boom: Easier credit or costlier money?

The government is making it a little easier for folk to swing a deal for the cheaper houses. But some builders doubt that it will cause many more homes to rise. They contend that mortgage interest rates will have to be hiked if home buyers are to find funds in this tight money market to close the deal.

The light pump priming by Washington led some stock traders to believe other relaxations were on the way — particularly the much talk of lowering of bank reserves to make more money available to borrowers.

On the chance that the authorities were in a mood to let the inflation camel get its nose under the tent again — so goes the story in Wall Street — some traders hid up stock prices Friday. When this possibility looked dimmer Monday, stock prices eased again.

Home builders have been the loudest in complaining about tight money, with small businessmen runnersup. Housing starts this year are trailing last by 200,000. Builders insist there is still a big demand for new homes but that it's getting harder all the time to find investment funds for the mortgages.

Interest on those backed by the Federal Housing Administration and the Veterans Administration is fixed at 4 1/2 per cent. Builders note that people can get more for their money on other investments. Builders want Congress to raise the limit on these mortgage terms and say that otherwise home building will continue to trail.

Some bankers question this, thinking the slowdown in building is more likely due to increased building costs and to less demand for smaller homes. They stress that the trend this year is toward larger and more costly houses.

The administration's move last week to ease up a little on housing restrictions took these forms: 1. Lowering FHA down payment rules on homes valued at $9,000 or less (Where you had to put up $630 on a $9,000 house, you now need only $450); 2. Letting savings and loan associations borrow more from Federal Home Loan banks; 3. Letting the Federal National Mortgage Assn. pay a little more for the mortgages it buys from banks and builders, making it less expensive for them to get more funds to lend on new mortgages.

Critics of the move make these points: 1. Lower down payments just leave more to be borrowed, increasing demand for funds in an already tight money market; 2. The Home Loan banks also may have to borrow to get the funds to lend to the Savings and loan associations; 3. Banks might sell more mortgages to the federal national mortgage assn., but use the funds for better paying investments.

They also contend that rising building costs have made the home under $9,000 less saleable today. But FHA officials say that last year 27 1/2 per cent of all the new homes it financed were in the $9,000 or less class and they think the same is true this year.

Letters To Editor

EDITOR, RECORD-HERALD:
Every effort is being made by the Miami Trace speaker, on his Monday broadcasts, to minimize the cost to you of the proposed M. T. suburban high school.

Two weeks ago they proceeded to break down the cost to the rural taxpayer. The harmless sounding and ridiculously low figure of 23 cents per acre was given to illustrate how little their bond issue would cost.

This week they are back on the elusive 2.58 millage figure. Remember, you won't pay mills — you will pay dollars!

Now you are adult, thinking people. Can you stand the whole truth on tax costs? Are you entitled to the whole truth? We think so!

First, you will not be paying $1,650,000 dollars as they have stated, but $2,120,000. Figure it for yourself — our 40 million duplicate times 2 point 58 mills, multiplied by 21 years.

Secondly, add to this $2,120,000 the $300,000 indebtedness we already have in the Miami Trace district. Your tax bill is now almost 2 1/2 million dollars.

Now, added to this 2 1/2 million dollar indebtedness, there is another factor you may have forgotten. Fayette County is now in the process of a real estate revaluation. So, your school taxes will increase approximately 15 per cent whether the bond issue fails or passes.

To sum up the facts, you already have a $300,000 mortgage, school operating taxes are going up 15 per cent. Do you also want to mortgage your income for the next 21 years to the tune of more than two million dollars to build a school which you cannot be certain you need?

Would it not be better and more sensible to admit we have no local experts? — that we need the services of a qualified professional organization to determine our school needs.

A more efficient, less expensive solution will be inevitable.

Citizens Committees have done this in other counties. The Citizens Committee will do the same thing for Fayette County.

Bender Still Irked By Lausche Silence

SIDNEY (AP) — U. S. Sen. George H. Bender (R-Ohio) Tuesday night again complained that Democratic Gov. Frank J. Lausche is failing to tell voters his stand on national issues.

"He (Lausche) has offered the voters of Ohio literally nothing as a guide to his views," Bender said at a dinner meeting attended by about 275 Shelby County Republicans. The meeting honored Roy E. Fry, Shelby County GOP chairman for 28 years. Lausche will oppose Bender for the senator's seat in the Nov. 6 election.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Any farmer looking to President Eisenhower or Adlai Stevenson for something brand new in the way of promises to help farmers must be disappointed so far.

Both men are sticking close, in their farm promises, to what their parties promised last August in their convention platforms. Neither has offered anything beyond what those platforms contained.

Both men now have made major farm speeches: Eisenhower at Peoria, Ill., Tuesday night, and Stevenson at Newton, Iowa, last Saturday.

The major difference between the promises made by Eisenhower and his Republicans and Stevenson and his Democrats still revolves around the question of price supports.

Eisenhower sticks by flexible price supports as the medicine the farmers need. Stevenson is all for price supports fixed at 90 per cent of parity on basic crops. There is a difference in the way the two men say they look at farmers.

Stevenson sees gloom over the farm lands and talks of a farm depression. Farm income has declined since 1951. But Eisenhower Tuesday night saw things getting better, thanks to his Republicans, and blamed the Democrats for farmers' bad times.

Eisenhower's speech Tuesday night, while it was not the kind to set the farmers afire, was still a calculated job of trying to heap the blame for farm troubles on the Democrats.

In the case of both men the meat in what they said was contained in a relatively few lines. Otherwise their speeches were taken up with making themselves and their parties look good and the opposition look bad.

These have been speeches typical of this presidential campaign so far. There has been a great absence of fire and a great abundance of words to state attitudes already pretty familiar.

But there was a small sprinkling of political salt:

In his Newton speech Stevenson scoffed at what Eisenhower promised the farmers in his 1952 campaign. And he mentioned Eisenhower by name.

Tuesday night Eisenhower scoffed at Stevenson and the Democrats — without mentioning Stevenson by name at all and the Democrats by name only once.

Sohio, Pittsburgh Firm Plan Venture

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Pittsburgh Consolidation Coal Co. and Standard Oil Co. of Ohio have formed a new company to make calcined carbon for the aluminum, electro-metallurgical and chemical industries.

The joint venture will be known as Mountaineer Carbon Co. Its plant will be at Cresap, W. Va. Joseph Pursglove Jr., newly-elected president of the firm, said the plant will have an annual capacity of 165,000 tons of calcined carbon.

Ford Price Hike Seen As Tipoff

DETROIT (AP) — The Ford announcement that its Ford line will carry wholesale price increases averaging 2.9 per cent probably gives a good indication of the overall price hikes in the heavy volume bracket.

Ford will present its new models publicly on Oct. 3. If the retailers add the full traditional markup the new car buyer will have to pay an average of about $70 more. There appears little doubt right now that the full "suggested" list price will be sought by most car retailers—at the start of the new model year at least.

Many retailers will enter the new model year with no leftover 1956 models in stock.

Chevrolet's general manager, Edward N. Cole, told newsmen at a preview that prices undoubtedly are going to be increased, but he said he did not know how much the increases will amount to. Chevrolet probably will disclose them a day or so prior to the public introduction, scheduled for Oct. 19.

There is little doubt in trade quarters, however, that the Chevrolet-Ford prices will be as "competitive" as ever. If that proves true they are not likely to differ as much as dollar—more or less—for comparable models.

Industry analysts also are guessing that when the 1957 model Plymouths are presented early in November, they, too, will carry advanced price tags. And the guesses are that they, also, will be "competitive" with Chevrolet and Ford.

Which Fuse For Building Boom Studied

Builders and Bankers
At Odds on Easier
Credit, Dearer Money

By SAM DAWSON
NEW YORK — Builders and bankers are sharply divided today on which would revive the home building boom: Easier credit or costlier money?

The government is making it a little easier for folk to swing a deal for the cheaper houses. But some builders doubt that it will cause many more homes to rise. They contend that mortgage interest rates will have to be hiked if home buyers are to find funds in this tight money market to close the deal.

The light pump priming by Washington led some stock traders to believe other relaxations were on the way — particularly the much talk of lowering of bank reserves to make more money available to borrowers.

On the chance that the authorities were in a mood to let the inflation camel get its nose under the tent again — so goes the story in Wall Street — some traders bid up stock prices Friday. When this possibility looked dimmer Monday, stock prices eased again.

Home builders have been the loudest in complaining about tight money, with small businessmen runnersup. Housing starts this year are trailing last by 200,000. Builders insist there is still a big demand for new homes but that it's getting harder all the time to find investment funds for the mortgages.

Interest on those backed by the Federal Housing Administration and the Veterans Administration is fixed at 4½ per cent. Builders note that people can get more for their money on other investments. Builders want Congress to raise the limit on these mortgage terms and say that otherwise home building will continue to trail.

Some bankers question this, thinking the slowdown in building is more likely due to increased building costs and to less demand for smaller homes. They stress that the trend this year is toward larger and more costly houses.

The administration's move last week to ease up a little on housing restrictions took these forms: 1. Lowering FHA down payment rules on homes valued at $9,000 or less (Where you had to put up $630 on a $9,000 house, you now need only $450); 2. Letting savings and loan associations borrow more from Federal Home Loan banks; 3. Letting the Federal National Mortgage Assn. pay a little more for the mortgages it buys from banks and builders, making it less expensive for them to get more funds to lend on new mortgages.

Critics of the move make these points: 1. Lower down payments just leave more to be borrowed, increasing demand for funds in an already tight money market; 2. The Home Loan banks also may have to borrow to get the funds to lend to the Savings and loan associations; 3. Banks might sell more mortgages to the federal national mortgage assn., but use the funds for better paying investments.

They also contend that rising building costs have made the home under $9,000 less saleable today. But FHA officials say that last year 27½ per cent of all the new homes it financed were in the $9,000 or less class and they think the same is true this year.

Letters To Editor

EDITOR, RECORD-HERALD:

Every effort is being made by the Miami Trace speaker, on his Monday broadcasts, to minimize the cost to you of the proposed M. T. suburban high school.

Two weeks ago they proceeded to break down the cost to the rural taxpayer. The harmless sounding and ridiculously low figure of 23 cents per acre was given to illustrate how little their bond issue would cost.

This week they are back on the elusive 2.58 millage figure. Remember, you won't pay mills — you will pay dollars!

Now you are adult, thinking people. Can you stand the whole truth on tax costs? Are you entitled to the whole truth? We think so!

First, you will not be paying $1,650,000 dollars as they have stated, but $2,120,000. Figure it for yourself — our 40 million duplicate times 2 point 58 mills, multiplied by 21 years.

Secondly, add to this $2,120,000 the $300,000 indebtedness we already have in the Miami Trace district. Your tax bill is now almost 2½ million dollars.

Now, added to this 2½ million dollar indebtedness, there is another factor you may have forgotten. Fayette County is now in the process of a real estate revaluation. So, your school taxes will increase approximately 15 per cent whether the bond issue fails or passes.

To sum up the facts, you already have a $300,000 mortgage, school operating taxes are going up 15 per cent. Do you also want to mortgage your income for the next 21 years to the tune of more than two million dollars to build a school which you cannot be certain you need?

Would it not be better and more sensible to admit we have no local experts? — that we need the services of a qualified professional organization to determine our school needs?

A more efficient, less expensive solution will be inevitable. Citizens Committees have done this in other counties. The Citizens Committee will do the same thing for Fayette County.

Is it wise, is it prudent to spend any money in view of the decision rendered last Thursday by Judge Houston who stated, "the mandatory provision of section 3311.90, Revised Code, is that — 'there shall be created in each of the counties of this state a County Citizens Committee'?"

New National Park OKd In Tropic Isle Setting

By H. D. CRAWFORD
(Central Press Association)
WASHINGTON — Virgin Islands National park which Congress and the President have approved, gives the American people a new national park vastly different from all the other 28 preserves in our own magnificent national park system.

All but 50 of the ultimate 9,500 acres in this island park are on St. John island, smallest of the principal American Virgin islands. The remaining 50 acres on nearby St. Thomas island will be used for park administration.

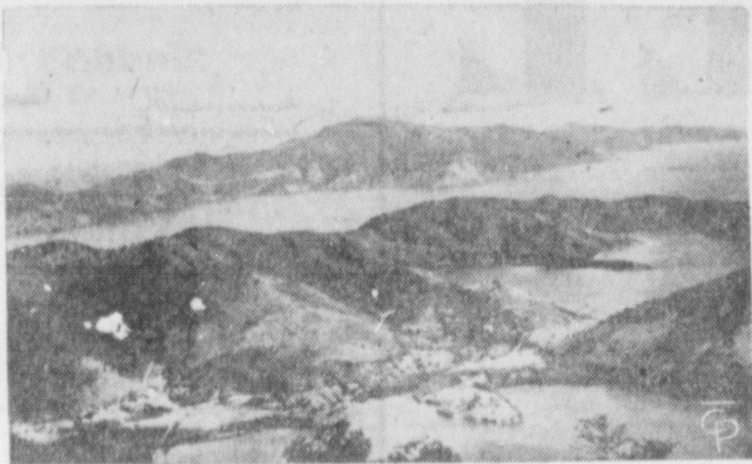

Lawrence S. Rockefeller, who made his own personal discovery of the charms of St. John in 1952, and two years later started planning ways to preserve the area's natural beauty, purchased more than 5,000 acres on St. John at $155 an acre and donated them to the federal government for a park.

FRANK STICK, retired artist and illustrator who has helped bring other unusual natural areas into the park system, was instrumental in getting momentum behind the Virgin Islands park project.

Recreational possibilities on St. John are varied and challenging. The bays and cays surrounding St. John, the mountains and forest on the island, the year-around, balmy, sub-tropical climate, the white sand beaches, the lanes, donkey trails and ruins of St. John's long history—these will appeal to the traveler who wishes to escape television glare, motor traffic roar, and sophisticated resorts on beaten paths of commercialized tourism.

THE CARIBBEAN'S Virgin island chain, consisting of St. Croix, St. Thomas and St. John, with many smaller islands and cays, lies about 900 miles southeast of Miami and 1,440 miles from New York City. About 50 miles west of St. John is Puerto Rico. The United States paid Denmark $25 million in 1917 for the Virgin Islands.

Less than a mile across the narrow north of St. John lies Great Thatch island, closest British possession, with the international boundary between them. A little farther northeastward lies the larger British islands of Tortola and Virgin Gorda, separated by three-mile-wide Drake's passage—named after Sir Francis Drake, who sailed through it in 1580.

St. John's eastern end as seen from 1,277-foot Bordeaux mountain. Fortberg hill, foreground, Tortola island in background.

St. John, least used of the Virgin islands since the United States purchased them, in 1950 had only 746 inhabitants. After Christopher Columbus discovered the Virgin Islands on his second voyage in 1493, naming them after St. Ursula and the 11,600 virgins, they were occupied by the Calibs, warrior tribes from South America. Spanish Conquistadores drove off the Calibs.

THE BRITISH on Tortola succeeded in driving off would-be settlers from St. John, until the spring of 1717. Twenty planters and five soldiers then landed on the east end of St. John. They erected Fortberg Hill. This started St.

John's sugar plantation era. By 1726 all tillable land was growing sugar cane. Planters cut down trees and terraced mountain slopes. They brought slaves from Africa. By 1733, St. John's population consisted of 208 Europeans and 1,087 slaves.

In November that year, the slaves revolted. They killed numerous planters and their families, and plundered and burned 44 plantations. French soldiers from Martinique finally quieted the last of the rebels.

PLANTATION sugar raising prospered on St. John until 1848, when slavery was abolished on the Virgin islands. At one time, 2,330 of St. John's 2,434 inhabitants were slaves. By 1900 only one of the island's former 50 sugar plantations still was operating.

Second-growth timber and bush today have reclaimed 85 per cent of St. John's 19 square miles. About 3,000 acres on the island are not included in the park. Terraces and ruins of windmills and plantation structures are almost the only traces of St. John's plantation era. Sub-tropical nature for many years has held domain—some 260 species of native woody plants and nearly 150 species of wild birds have been counted.

Nature and man now at last are co-operating on St. John: man preserving the charm and glory of nature in the Virgin Islands National park, and nature providing man with luring trails, white sand beaches, mountains topped by 1,277-foot Bordeaux mountain, endless channels for motorboating among the cays, and a balmy, south sea climate said to be one of the most pleasant and healthiest in the world.

Banana Shucker Has His Sights On Million Mark

BALBOA, Calif. (AP)—Meet a man who has peeled half a million bananas in a mere eight years and vows to make it a million within two more.

He is Don Phillips who, when he finished World War II service, had a "flash of insight" while trying to think of a way to be a success. His inspiration: Chocolate coated bananas.

He started business in a fun zone here with a bunch of bananas and two feet of space in an old ice cream freezer. Bathers like his wares—he soon branched out into nutty and chocolate chip coatings for variety—and now he has "500 times my original space."

Phillips, who peels nearly all his fruit himself, claims the distinction of being the world's fastest and most experienced banana shucker.

Gas Ignites; Thieves Jump Out of Shoes

BETHLEHEM, Pa. (AP)—Cinderella's prince has nothing on the Bethlehem police in matching shoes to feet to find a mysterious somebody.

The Bethlehem authorities reported two thieves literally jumped out of their shoes while they were attempting to steal gasoline. The cause: The gasoline ignited. Found at the scene were one each of a size 9 and a size 7 moccasin—both for the left foot. Police quickly pressed their search for a pair of hop-scotching foot-pads, using moccasins instead of the traditional glass slipper.

New National Park OK'd In Tropic Isle Setting

By H. D. CRAWFORD
(Central Press Association)
WASHINGTON — Virgin Islands National park which Congress and the President have approved, gives the American people a new national park vastly different from all the other 28 preserves in our own magnificent national park system.

All but 50 of the ultimate 9,500 acres in this island park are on St. John island, smallest of the principal American Virgin islands. The remaining 50 acres on nearby St. Thomas island will be used for park administration.

Lawrence S. Rockefeller, who made his own personal discovery of the charms of St. John in 1952, and two years later started planning ways to preserve the area's natural beauty, purchased more than 5,000 acres on St. John at $155 an acre and donated them to the federal government for a park.

FRANK STICK, retired artist and illustrator who had helped bring other unusual natural areas into the park system, was instrumental in getting momentum behind the Virgin Islands park project.

Recreational possibilities on St. John are varied and challenging. The bays and cays surrounding St. John, the mountains and forest on the island, the year-around, balmy, sul-tropical climate, the white sand beaches, the lanes, donkey trails and ruins of St. John's long history—these will appeal to the traveler who wishes to escape television glare, motor traffic roar, and sophisticated resorts on beaten paths of commercialized tourism.

THE CARIBBEAN'S Virgin island chain, consisting of St. Croix, St. Thomas and St. John, with many smaller islands and cays, lies about 900 miles southeast of Miami and 1,440 miles from New York City. About 50 miles west of St. John is Puerto Rico. The United States paid Denmark $25 million in 1917 for the Virgin Islands.

Less than a mile across the narrows north of St. John lies Great Thatch island, closest British possession, with the international boundary between them. A little farther northeastward lies the larger British islands of Tortola and Virgin Gorda, separated by three-mile-wide Drake's passage—named after Sir Francis Drake, who sailed through it in 1580.

St. John, least used of the Virgin islands since the United States purchased them, in 1950 had only 74 inhabitants. After Christopher Columbus discovered the Virgin Islands on his second voyage in 1493, naming them after St. Ursula and the 11,600 virgins, they were occupied by the Calibs, warrior tribes from South America. Spanish Conquistadores drove off the Calibs.

THE BRITISH on Tortola succeeded in driving off would-be settlers from St. John, until the spring of 1717. Twenty planters and five soldiers then landed on the east end of St. John. They erected Fortberg Hill. This started St.

not included in the park. Terraces and ruins of windmills and plantation structures are almost the only traces of St. John's plantation era. Sub-tropical nature for many years has held domain—some 260 species of native woody plants and nearly 150 species of wild birds have been counted.

Nature and man now at last are co-operating on St. John: man preserving the charm and glory of nature in the Virgin Islands National park, and nature providing man with luring trails, white sand beaches, mountains topped by 1,277-foot Bordeaux mountain, endless channels for motorboating among the cays, and a balmy, south sea climate said to be one of the most pleasant and healthiest in the world.

Banana Shucker Has His Sights On Million Mark

BALBOA, Calif. (AP)—Meet a man who has peeled half a million bananas in a mere eight years and vows to make it a million within two more.

He is Don Phillips who, when he finished World War II service, had a "flash of insight" while trying to think of a way to be a success. His inspiration: Chocolate coat ed bananas.

He started business in a fun zone here with a bunch of bananas and two feet of space in an old ice cream freezer. Bathers like his wares—he soon branched out into nutty and chocolate chip coatings for variety—and now he has "500 times my original space."

Phillips, who peels nearly all his fruit himself, claims the distinction of being the world's fastest and most experienced banana shucker.

There are more cattle in the United States than in the entire continent of Africa.

Gas Ignites; Thieves Jump Out of Shoes

BETHLEHEM, Pa. (AP)—Cinderella's prince has nothing on the Bethlehem police in matching shoes to feet to find a mysterious somebody.

The Bethlehem authorities reported two thieves literally jumped out of their shoes while they were attempting to steal gasoline. The cause: The gasoline ignited. Found at the scene were one each of a size 9 and a size 7 moccasin—both for the left foot. Police quickly pressed their search for a pair of hop-scotching foot-pads, using moccasins instead of the traditional glass slipper.

Old Pappy Guy Maglie Hurls Bum No-Hitter

Comeback by Sal, 39, Hailed as Dodgers Keep Close to Braves

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Comebacks? Baseball has had 'em. How about Ted Williams, returned from the wars? Or a "washed up" Johnny Mize tagging home runs for the 1950 Yankees? Or Roy Campanella, most valuable again with a healthy thumb last season?

Now it's Sal Maglie—the pappy guy the Giants had enough of; the old man Cleveland couldn't squeeze into its second-place pitching staff.

It was Sal, the onetime Dodger killer, who beat Milwaukee for Brooklyn's overnight share of the National League lead two weeks ago. And Tuesday night, it was Maglie again, this time using his curve and control to gain his first no-hit, no-run game with a 5-0 masterpiece against Philadelphia that kept the Dodgers within three percentage points of the first-place Braves.

At 39, Maglie is the oldest National League pitcher ever to pitch a no-hitter — and ironically, it overshadowed a splendid six-single job by Warren Spahn, another comeback guy, that gave Milwaukee a 7-1 victory over Cincinnati and all but shut the door on Redleg pennant hopes. It was the 20th victory for the 35-year-old southpaw, prematurely tagged a has-been last season.

Even if the Redlegs sweep their remaining two, at Chicago Saturday and Sunday, the Cincy are dead should the Braves win even one of their remaining three, beginning Friday night at St. Louis. Two more victories by Brooklyn, facing Philadelphia again today with a chance to deadlock the Braves before a windup three-game series with Pittsburgh this weekend at Ebbets Field, would chill Cincy too.

Maglie clinched fourth place by defeating Chicago 5-1 in a doubleheader opener, then lost to the Cubs 6-2 in the nightcap, cut to 7½ innings by darkness. New York's Giants scored a 10-0 decision over the Pirates.

In the American, the champion New York Yankees belted Baltimore 11-6; Cleveland beat Kansas City 4-1 in 10 innings; for Early Wynn's 20th; Detroit spilled Chicago 5-3; and Boston whacked Washington 10-4.

Maglie, gaining his third shutout with his 12th victory, allowed but three base runners—walking two and hitting Richie Ashburn w' a two-out, 1-2 pitch in the ninth. He retired the first eight men he faced, gave up a walk to loser Jack Meyer, then knocked off 13 in a row.

The Dodgers, held to just four hits by three pitchers, scored three runs in the second on two hits—one a two-run homer by Roy Campanella, his 19th. Stan Lopata's error produced two unearned runs in the third.

Spahn, missing a shutout on three singles in the third, doubled home two runs for a 3-0 lead that chased Larry Jansen in the second inning. The Braves had 15 hits off six pitchers.

Four unearned runs and a triple play won for the Cardinals as bonus boy Lindy McDaniel went the distance for the first time. But bonus kid Don Kaiser then stopped them in the nightcap.

The Giants had 18 hits, four of them homers, as Johnny Antonelli w. hi. 19th. Willie Mays, hitting his 36th homer, and Red Schoendienst also with a homer, had four hits each.

Bill Skowron drove in five runs and Bob "erry four for the Yankees as Tom Sturdivant won his 16th on a five-run, two-out rally in the seventh.

Rocky Colavito's 21st homer, a three-run poke, broke a tie for the Indians as Wynn joined teammate Bob Lemon in the 23-victory circle on a four-hitter.

Earl Torgeson and Charlie Maxwell hit back-to-back home runs to break up a 3-all tie for the Tigers in the eighth.

Ted Williams drove in four runs with his 24th homer and a bases-loaded walk for Boston's first victory over Pedro Ramirez in seven decisions.

Early Wynn Cops His 20th Victory

CLEVELAND (F)—Early Wynn nearly lost a heartbreaker Tuesday night, then his mates came up with two homers to give him his 20th victory of the season.

The Cleveland Indians right-hander had allowed the Kansas City Athletics only two hits, but he was trailing 1-0 in the ninth.

With two out, Preston Ward hit a pinch homer to tie the game.

The A's got two more hits off Wynn in the 10th but couldn't score.

Then in the Cleveland 10th, Joe Caffie beat out a bunt and was sacrificed to second. Vic Wertz was intentionally walked, and Rocky Colavito bounced reliever Tom Gorman's first pitch off the fence for a 4-1 victory.

Basilio's Rating Hiked by Expert

NEW YORK (F)—Carmen Basilio's knockout of Johnny Saxton in their return welterweight title bout today earned the Chittenango Cloutier the "Fighter of the Month" award from Ring Magazine and dropped Saxton to second among the contenders.

The new Ring ratings, released today by editor Nat Fleischer, had Saxton, the ex-champ, in the No. 2 spot behind another former titleholder, Tony DeMarco.

Birdie Sings High Praise For Braves

CINCINNATI (F)—"You've got to give Milwaukee the edge. They have both speed and power."

That's how Birdie Tebbets, Cincinnati manager, sized up the National League race after his club was practically eliminated from contention Tuesday by a 7-1 loss to the Braves.

"I always give Milwaukee the edge," said Tebbets. "But I thought we'd knock them out."

"If it comes down to inches, they (Milwaukee) have the inches. They have more speed. This might be decided by some guy hitting a ball on the ground and beating it out for a hit. They have more men who can do that."

As far as the Redlegs are concerned, Tebbets admitted, "It looks like the last shot was fired at Crosley Field. All Milwaukee had to do was win one more and we can't even tie them."

Manager Fred Haney of the Braves, who said he would send his boys through a workout at St. Louis Thursday before a final three-game series, wouldn't go as far as Tebbets in giving his club an edge.

"This was a big one," he said. "But it wasn't any bigger than the three we have coming up with St. Louis. The big difference now is that we only have to win three more. Before we beat Cincinnati we had to win four."

Washington C. H. Entry Is Winner

LEBANON (F)—A spurt into the lead from fifth place at the half-way mark carried Betty Astra to victory in the featured seventh race at Lebanon Raceway Tuesday night.

The eight-year-old mare is owned by Ray Garrity of Washington C. H. Hobbled by lameness this year, she notched her first 1956 win with a 2:08.2 mile circuit.

Betty Astra had a brief challenge in the stretch by runnerup Bonnie Lois Volo, but maintained her lead handily to the wire.

Rites Scheduled For Oriole Star

BALTIMORE (F)—Funeral services for Tommy Gastall, 23-year-old bonus catcher for the Baltimore Orioles who was killed in a plane crash, will be held Saturday in Fall River, Mass.

Gastall's body was recovered from Chesapeake Bay off suburban Riviera Beach by two of the town's firemen Tuesday.

A native of Fall River, Gastall was eagerly eyed by major league teams before signing with the Orioles June 20, 1955. His bonus reportedly was $40,000.

Newk Named To Keep Bums In NL Race

BROOKLYN (F)—Sal (The Barber) Maglie has done it again. The ancient mound magician pitched a 5-0 no-hit victory against Philadelphia Tuesday night to keep Brooklyn on the heels of the Milwaukee Braves and make it possible for the Dodgers to climb into a first-place tie today.

Manager Walter Alston, after blessing the day the Dodgers acquired the former Dodger killer, nominated Don Newcombe, his 26-game winner, to hurl against Rob in Roberts and the Phillies this afternoon.

Newcombe will work with a two-day rest, one day less than Maglie had when the 39-year-old right-hander pitched his masterpiece which enabled the Dodgers to hang within half a game of the Braves, who earlier had all but knocked Cincinnati out of the National League pennant race with a 7-1 triumph.

Sal was at his magnificent best as he faced 29 batters, permitting only three to reach base—hitting one batter and walking two. A double play followed one of the walks.

Only once did the Phillies come close to connecting safely. That was in the second inning when Willie Jones drove a hard grounder up the middle of the diamond. Shortstop Pee Wee Reese, playing in his 2,000th major league game, darted to his left for a fine stop and throw to retire the batter.

Maglie was inclined to minimize what may have been the best pitched game of his brilliant career but it couldn't have come at a better time. The chilled crowd of 15,204 stood up and cheered his every pitch in the ninth inning.

Baker Is Favored To Trip Jackson

PITTSBURGH (F)—Bob Baker, confident he's licked his weight problem, is an 8.5 favorite to do the same tonight to Tommy (Hurricane) Jackson in a 12-round outdoor fight that probably means a crack at the heavyweight title for the winner.

With time starting to run out for him, Baker, 29, and his handlers are confident that an arduous training routine which has cut his weight to a trim 210 pounds will give him all that's needed to defeat the ever-pressing Hurricane in this return bout.

The unpredictable Jackson won their first encounter with a 10-round split decision in New York last February.

Old Pappy Guy Maglie Hurls Bum No-Hitter

Comeback by Sal, 39,
Hailed as Dodgers
Keep Close to Braves

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Comebacks? Baseball has had 'em. How about Ted Williams, returned from the wars? Or a "washed up" Johnny Mize tagging home runs for the 1950 Yankees? Or Roy Campanella, most valuable again with a healthy thumb last season?

Now it's Sal Maglie—the pappy guy the Giants had enough of; the old man Cleveland couldn't squeeze into its second-place pitching staff.

It was Sal, the onetime Dodger killer, who beat Milwaukee for Brooklyn's overnight share of the National League lead two weeks ago. And Tuesday night, it was Maglie again, this time using his curve and control to gain his first no-hit, no-run game with a 5-0 masterpiece against Philadelphia that kept the Dodgers within three percentage points of the first-place Braves.

At 39, Maglie is the oldest National Leaguer ever to pitch a no-hitter — and ironically, it overshadowed a splendid six-inning job by Warren Spahn, another comeback guy, that gave Milwaukee a 7-1 victory over Cincinnati and all but shut the door on Redleg pennant hopes. It was the 20th victory for the 35-year-old southpaw, prematurely tagged as has-been last season.

Even if the Redlegs sweep their remaining two, at Chicago Saturday and Sunday, the Cincy are dead should the Braves win even one of their remaining three, beginning Friday night at St. Louis. Two more victories by Brooklyn, facing Philadelphia again today with a chance to deadlock the Braves before a windup three-game series with Pittsburgh this weekend at Ebbets Field, would chill Cincy too.

St. Louis clinched fourth place by defeating Chicago 5-1 in a doubleheader opener, then lost to the Cubs 6-2 in the nightcap, cut to 7½ inings by darkness. New York's Giants scored a 10-0 decision over the Pirates.

In the American, the champion New York Yankees belted Baltimore 11-6; Cleveland beat Kansas City 4-1 in 10 innings for Early Wynn's 20th; Detroit spilled Chicago 5-3; and Boston whacked Washington 10-4.

Maglie, gaining his third shutout with his 12th victory, allowed but three base runners—walking two and hitting Richie Ashburn w.i. a two-out, 1-2 pitch in the ninth. He retired the first eight men he faced, gave up a walk to loser Jack Meyer, then knocked off 13 in a row.

The Dodgers, held to just four hits by three pitchers, scored three runs in the second on two hits—one a two-run homer by Roy Campanella, his 19th. Stan Lopata's error produced two unearned runs in the third.

Spahn, missing a shutout on three singles in the third, doubled home two runs for a 3-0 lead that chased Larry Jansen in the second inning. The Braves had 15 hits off six pitchers.

Four unearned runs and a triple play won for the Cardinals as bonus boy Lindy McDaniel went the distance for the first time. But bonus kid Don Kaiser then stopped them in the nightcap.

The Giants had 16 hits, four of them homers, as Johnny Antonelli won his 19th. Willie Mays, hitting his 36th homer, and Red Schoendienst also with a homer, had four hits each.

Bill Skowron drove in five runs and Bob Cerv four for the Yankees as Tom Sturdivant won his 16th on a five-run, two-out rally in the seventh.

Rocky Colavito's 21st homer, a three-run puke, broke a tie for the Indians as Wynn joined teammate Bob Lemon in the 23-victory circle on a four-hitter.

Earl Torgerson and Charlie Maxwell hit back-to-back home runs to break up a 3-all tie for the Tigers in the eighth.

Ted Williams drove in four runs with his 24th homer and a bases-loaded walk for Boston's first victory over Pedro Ramos in seven decisions.

News in Brief

Stock Market Continues Fall

NEW YORK (U)—The stock market headed lower again this afternoon after failure to pursue a rise in the morning.

Prices of leading issues fell around two points or more and turnover increased on the decline.

Volume was estimated at around 2½ million shares compared with 2,100,000 Tuesday. That would be the heaviest trading rate in weeks.

Steels, coppers, oils and aluminum, showing the steepest losses, were the most actively traded.

Wall Street, which has always reflected the prospects of President Eisenhower's continuance in office, showed greater concern about the current presidential campaign. But the technical condition of the market also bothered traders, along with worries over tight credit and the Suez Canal.

Tuesday's steep setback ranked among the worst since Eisenhower's intestinal ailment June 8. Today's recovery movement was a short-lived and prices dropped in all major divisions.

Paper losses Tuesday were estimated in excess of $2 billion.

WASHINGTON (U)—White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said today President Eisenhower is considering a campaign trip to St. Louis.

NEW DELHI (U)—Indian officials today estimated more than 250 persons died in the past six months in seasonal floods and heavy rains in scattered parts of the country.

BELGRADE (U)—Nikita Khrushchev and President Tito returned today from Tito's island retreat of Brioni. Well informed sources said they had conferred on the world situation and relations between the Soviet and Yugoslav Communist parties.

Khrushchev's visit to Yugoslavia has been labeled a vacation officially, but many speculated its purpose was to further improve relations between the Kremlin and Tito.

BUDAPEST, Hungary (U)—The Hungarian railways announced today 600 passenger trains were being discontinued for three weeks "because of the extraordinarily grave coal situation." Only two daily trains still will operate in each direction on main lines.

The newspaper Szabad Nep said the mines cannot satisfy fuel demands of the nation because oil production was reduced due to water in some fields.

Jasper PTO Group Honors 4-H Winners

It was 4-H night Tuesday at the Jasper Parent-Teacher Organization's first meeting in the Jasper School as the 4-H Buzzer Duzzin' and the Jasper Clodhoppers received checks and awards for their winning efforts at the Fayette County Fair.

Phil Grover, assistant county agent, presented the checks and the 4-Hers showed some of their projects to the PTO.

Reporting on their groups' activities for the year were Mrs. John Sheeley, advisor for the Buzzer Duzzin', and Harry Allen, advisor for the Jasper Clodhoppers.

The girls modeled their sewing work and gave a pantomime entitled "Watching All the Girls Go By."

Receiving checks for their work were Frankie Yoakum, Phillip Crago, Vernon Klontz, James Beekman, Gary Herdman, Johnny Minton, Joe Lane and Jerry Watson, of the Clodhoppers, and Genie Creamer, Ruth Rinehart, Linda Young, Elizabeth Hensley, Francis Klontz, Bonnie Minshall, Phyllis Herdman, Barbara Creamer, Judy Blair, Mary Jo Minton, Cathy Allen, Helen and Ruth Sheeley, Janice Yoakum, Carolyn Rinehart,
